ISRAELI RAIDERS HIT JORDAN

...Arab Armies, Guerrillas Fought During 21-Hour Foray

By The Associated Press

Israeli armored raiders, in their longest foray into Jordan since the 1967 war, battled Arab guerrilla and army forces for 21 hours before pulling back Wednesday across the cease-fire line.

Sweat-soaked Israelis whooped with delight and relief as they rumbled back across the border laden with bazookas, Kalatchnikov automatic rifles, and other booty seized from the Jordanians.

Seven Arabs Said Killed

A Jordanian military spokesman said a Jordanian army officer and six Palestinian guerrillas were killed and nine Jordanian soldiers wounded in the fighting in the desert south of the Dead Sea.

Amman announced that three Jordanian army vehicles and a number of houses were blown up by the Israelis.

Al Fatah, the guerrilla organization, claimed that its men killed two of the raiders and destroyed two Israeli tanks. An Al Fatah communique from Damascus said Saudi Arabian forces stationed in the area joined Arab guerrillas and Jordanian army units in battling the Israelis.

King Directs Fighting

Amman radio said Jordan's King Hussein went to the scene and personally directed the fighting against the raiders.

"He returned to Amman confident that Jordanian forces were in full control of the situation," said the broadcast.

A Jordanian spokesman said the Israelis were forced to pull back under incessant hammering from Arab artillery, but left little behind in the field. He estimated, however, that losses in men and material on the Israeli side were "very heavy."

Helicopters and ambulances were seen shuttling up to the fighting line evacuating Israeli casualties, he added.

An Israeli announcement said the attackers suffered no casualties.

Moving back to the Israeli side of the border, the raiders staged a rendezvous near the frontier. Tanks, half-tracks jeeps and trucks assembled beneath towering sandstone cliffs at a desolate compound.

Newsmen in Israel were not permitted to discuss details of the raid with the returning soldiers, but an Israeli army spokesman said the force met little resistance in the operation to clean out Arab guerrilla bases in the Safi region, 2.5 miles across the border. The number of men involved in the raid was not made public.

The area hit by the raiders is a boulder-strewn plain bounded by high escarpments on the eastern side. Heavy trucks and half tracks churned a sea of mud after a day of rain.

After a series of air strikes on the area Tuesday, Israeli forces reportedly including 40 tanks, moved into Jordan under cover of darkness.

The Al Fatah communique said the raiders clashed first with Saudi Arabian troops stationed near the villages of Fifa and Safi, just across the border from the biblical town of Sodom.

Suspected Hideouts Blown Up

Arab guerrillas joined the fight as the Israelis, supported by jets, occupied the two villages, blowing up suspected guerrilla hideouts.

Jordanian artillery opened up from emplacements on rugged escarpments overlooking the Dead Sea and fighting went on throughout the night.

Palestine guerrilla officials reported hand-to-hand fighting in Safi as the Israelis began pulling back early Wednesday.

Nixon Puts Last Touches On State Of Union Talk

Washington (AP) — President Nixon, putting the finishing touches on his State of the Union message, said Wednesday that "some needed federal programs simply will have to be postponed, so that we live within our means."

Nixon had said earlier that he would talk in general terms about budget restraint and the anti-inflation program when he goes to the Capitol Thursday for an 11:30 a.m. appearance at a joint session of Congress. The President's reading of his message will be broadcast live by television and radio networks.

The chief executive had no announced appointments Wednesday. He worked on final drafts of his address and conferred with key staff aides.

Nixon issued a statement which called on private enterprise to postpone capital spending where possible so more money can be available for housing.

Nixon said, "I urge the private sector to follow this example of federal budget restraint by also postponing avoidable expenditures and increasing savings."

Nixon spoke about "the crisis situation we are facing in the housing of our people."

Paul McCracken, chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers, put it more bluntly in talking to newsmen at the White House:

"I think it's fair to say the housing industry is in a recession."

However, McCracken said that, where the over-all economy is concerned, "I don't see any evidence yet that would make me think we are moving into a recession."

Housing starts last year dropped from an annual rate of 1.8 million units in January to 1.2 million units in December.

Demo Unit Plans TV Rebuttal

Washington (AP) — House Democrats, criticizing President Nixon's fiscal policies, announced plans Wednesday to stage a televised rebuttal to the President's 'State of the Union' message.

The House Democratic caucus approved a resolution describing Nixon's anti-inflation effort as a high-interest, tight-money policy "crushing the housing market, blocking school construction, water and sewage facilities and the revitalization of our urban and rural communities, and creating unemployment and inflation."

The resolution called for appropriate House committees chaired by Democrats, "in lieu of leadership from the executive branch, to draft a specific program to combat high interest rates and to bring about a more equitable and effective monetary policy for the nation."

Caucus Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., said the Democrats plan to reply some time in February to Nixon's State of the Union message Thursday, and will ask the major television networks to carry their rebuttal.

Old YMCA Building Sold For $165,000

. . . To Community Development Co.

The old YMCA building at 210 No. 13th was sold Jan. 1, 1970, to the Community Development Co. for $165,000, it was announced Wednesday.

There are "no definite plans" for using the building which is being leased back to the YMCA until the new facilities under construction at 11th and P Sts. are completed, reported John M. Campbell, head of the Community Development Co.

Campbell said that the firm would prefer to have the building used, rather than razing the structure for a parking lot.

The 60-year-old building was on the market two years before the YMCA boards of trustees and directors accepted the Community Development Co. offer, according to YMCA executive secretary Bill Schenk.

The 13th and P St. structure was the third YMCA building in Lincoln, according to Dr. John Fuhrer who has compiled a history of the organization.

The present building was financed with $105,355 from subscriptions and dedicated June 4, 1911, with William Jennings Bryan delivering the dedicatory address, Fuhrer said.

The first YMCA building was constructed at 13th and N in 1889-1892, but lost when mortgages on the structure were foreclosed during the depression of the late 1890's. The building became the Free Press Building and is now called the Chapin Building.

The YMCA moved to the old Halter Building at 13th and P where the Stuart Building was later constructed, Fuhrer said.

Dr. B. L. Paine, a partner of Miller and Paine, gave the YMCA several lots across the street from the Halter Building and a temporary building was dedicated in 1906.

The $165,000 from the sale of the building will be added to the YMCA building budget for financing the remodeling of the Capital Hotel and construction of new athletic facilities adjacent to the hotel.

Rafferty Urges Letting Students Judge Teachers

Sacramento, Calif. (UPI) — Dr. Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, has advocated a system of merit pay increases for teachers rather than automatic raises.

He says it's simple to tell how good a teacher is. "I could tell in 10 minutes by just asking the first 10 kids I met in a school." He added that rarely are the most popular teachers considered the best by the students.

BAGS OF MARIJUANA . . . weighed by Sheriff Whitted.

Big Cache Of Marijuana Found Following Arrest

Papillion (AP) — A cache of marijuana, possibly worth as much as $100,000 has been found in the basement of an eastern Sarpy County house, Sheriff Richard Whitted Jr., reported Wednesday.

The marijuana was found after Jack Smith, 38, the tenant, was arrested Tuesday night for an alleged marijuana sale at a shopping center. While Whitted hovered overhead in a rented helicopter an undercover agent purchased a package containing one kilo or 2.2 pounds of marijuana for $100.

Sarpy County Attorney Dixon Adams said Smith has been charged with possessing marijuana with intent to sell it.

Smith is operator of a truck repair business in Papillion.

Whitted said marijuana, most of it wrapped in cellophane packages was found in Smith's car and at his place of business as well as at the rented home.

Sarpy county deputies waited in cars and trucks around the Tara Plaza shopping Center for nearly two hours before the sale took place. Whitted said the helicopter was employed because it was not known if the seller would flee.

Adams said he has asked the sheriff to obtain a laboratory analysis to determine whether the marijuana had been grown locally or was shipped in. Sarpy County has been a focal point for marijuana harvesters the last two summers, and a number have been arrested.

Trio Arrested In Yablonski Case

Cleveland (AP) — The FBI announced that three men were being held in Cleveland Wednesday on charges of violating federal laws in connection with the slayings of United Mine Workers union leader Joseph A. Yablonski and his wife and daughter.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover identified the three men as Paul Eugene Gilly, 37, a suburban East Cleveland housepainter; Aubran Wayne "Buddy" Martin, 23, a Cleveland laborer, and Claude Edward Vealey, 26, a resident of the Cleveland area.

In a statement issued simultaneously in Washington and Cleveland, Hoover said Gilly and Vealey were arrested Wednesday and Martin already had been confined to the Cleveland workhouse on charges of resisting arrest and burglary.

Unsuccessful Candidate

The blood-splattered bodies of Yablonski, who unsuccessfully ran for president of the mine workers union last month, and his wife were found in an upstairs bedroom of their Clarksville, Pa., home 35 miles south of Pittsburgh Jan. 5. The body of their 25-year-old daughter, Charlotte Joanne, was found in an adjoining room. Yablonski had been shot five times, his wife and daughter twice each.

The FBI did not say whether the three men charged were members of the mine workers union, whose election last month was one of the bitterest in the history of the U.S. labor movement. But union spokesmen in Washington said in a statement they were "most happy to learn that they apparently have no connection with the UMW."

Hoover said three charges, each a felony, were filed against Gilly, Vealey and Martin. The charges were: interfering with the rights of union members by force or violence, conspiring to interfere with the rights of union members by force or violence and obstruction of justice.

Convicted Felon

In addition, Vealey, a convicted felon, was charged with violating the federal firearms act by transporting firearms across state lines.

Agents said Vealey was paroled from the Ohio State Reformatory in Mansfield in 1968 after serving two years of a one-to-15-year sentence for burglary. He had been arrested in 1965 in Cleveland, agents said.

Martin has been in Cleveland's Warrensville workhouse since Jan. 9, when he was sentenced to 55 days for a traffic violation and for resisting and abusing an officer. He has an arrest record dating back to July 25, 1968, when he was fined $25 on a disorderly conduct charge. He also has been arrested on burglary and larceny charges.

Gilly has no previous record.

Gun Said Found

The FBI declined to give additional details, but the Cleveland Plain Dealer said it had learned that a gun believed linked to the Yablonski slayings had been found in the Cleveland area. Local agents gained possession of the gun last week and sent it to Washington for testing, the newspaper said, and another gun was being sought in the same section of Ohio.

Hoover's statement said Yablonski, 59, his wife, Margaret, 57, and daughter apparently had been dead since Dec. 31.

"Reportedly Yablonski had been stalked and his residence cased on several occasions prior to the commission of the crime during the early morning hours of New Year's Eve," Hoover said.

'Entry Forced'

"Forcible entry was made into the Yablonski home, telephone wires were cut, and an automobile on the property was disabled.

"A dog on the premises presumably did not alert the family to the activities of the intruders who had apparently removed their shoes and attacked the victims in the dark."

From his home in Washington, Pa., Yablonski's son, Kenneth who discovered the bodies said he was "glad" to hear of the arrests. "Our whole family has been living in a state of fear since Jan. 5."

Chadron Student Challenges Dress Code

REICHENBERG . . . goes to court.

By KEN NEUNDORF
Star Staff Writer

A 24-year-old Chadron State College student who said he was barred from registering at the school because of the length of his hair and moustache asked U.S. District Court Judge Robert Van Pelt Wednesday to prevent the college's action.

Robert Reichenberg Jr. of Chadron, a sophomore political science major, asked Van Pelt for a restraining order against a "clarification" of the school's dress code made by Dr. Edwin Nelson, president of the college.

Reichenberg contends the clarification is "overbroad" and that in effect it would permit moustaches like the one worn by Adolf Hitler while prohibiting ones like Mark Twain's.

'Clarification'

According to documents introduced by Reichenberg's attorneys, Nelson's clarification stated: "Male students will wear their hair short enough that eye brows, ears and collars are in full view. Sideburns will be no lower than the ear lobe and moustaches will be trimmed even with the mouth."

His attorneys claim the school dress code, approved by the faculty senate last September simply states that moustaches and sideburns will be neat and hair not long.

Reichenberg appeared in court neatly attired in a gray striped suit with a moustache that dipped slightly below the edges of his mouth, sideburns slightly below the ear lobe and hair that just touched the collar of his coat.

Van Pelt said he would rule Thursday or Friday on whether to restrain the college's refusal to register Reichenberg.

To Study Opinion

The judge said that, before issuing an order, he wants first to study an opinion handed down Monday by Federal Judge William C. Hansen of Des Moines in a case involving a public school student.

In that suit, Hansen ruled unconstitutional a school district's regulation limiting the length of students' hair.

Attorneys Wallace Rudolph and Patrick Healey, acting as counsel for Reichenberg with the support of the Nebraska Civil Liberties Union, said any temporary restraining order in the case would have to come by Monday in order to do their client any good.

Monday is the last day for registration at Chadron State, they explained.

Attended Earlier

The petition said that Reichenberg attended the first semester at Chadron with his appearance the same as Wednesday when he appeared in court.

Reichenberg earned a 3.7 average on a 4.0 grading scale, the petition said, and at no time was he charged with breaking any rules or was he subject to disciplinary actions.

Rudolph said that most rules pertaining to dress are predicated on the theory that irregular dress causes disruption in classrooms.

He said Reichenberg's appearance at Chadron State has caused no disruptions and that the issue at stake is whether "state authority can be exercised without any rational basis."

'Subject To Change'

"Hair styles are subject to change from time to time and it's obvious that we're in a period where they're changing now, though there seems to be some resistance to it," Rudolph said.

Rudolph, a law professor at the University of Nebraska, said a third of his freshman students would have to be expelled if the Chadron president's "clarification" were in effect at NU.

The petition alleges that by refusing to register Reichenberg Tuesday, the college deprived him of rights under the First, Fifth, Ninth and 14th amendments to the Constitution.

Reichenberg entered Chadron State last fall after serving three years in the Army in Germany. Before that he attended the University of Wyoming for two years.

To The Victor, Spoils; To The Loser, Misery

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

World News

Owerri, Nigeria (AP) — Whenever a food truck arrived on the scene, they pushed and mauled and screamed.

If a food bag fell from a truck or broke at a feeding station, they fought and clawed each other for a chance to get at it.

The once proud Ibos, who had pulled themselves higher up the ladder of progress through education and ambition then had any of Nigeria's other 200-odd tribes, now in the backwash of their tragic civil war are reduced to begging with outstretched hands by the roadsides.

Not Same People

The first newsmen permitted inside the fallen secessionist area were shaken by what they saw and heard. To those who had been here before, these seemed like an entirely different people. Gone was the pride and courage they had displayed even in Biafra's dying days before the hopeless fighting was ended.

The more the party of newsmen penetrated former Biafran territory, the more appalling seemed the conditions of hunger, homelessness and confusion.

Everywhere they saw signs of looting by the victorious federal troops and heard accounts of rape and pillage. Everywhere refugees were shuffling on the move, their pitifully few belongings teetering precariously on their heads. Everywhere women hunted lost husbands and children. Panicky Biafrans begged to change their useless Biafran money into Nigerian currency to buy what little food might be available.

Too Weak To Move

As children writhed in the agony of paralyzing hunger, a group of British construction workers near Port Harcourt took up a collection to find food for them. Many were so weak they could not move and lay gasping as a Danish nurse tried to feed them.

"God help these children," said Londoner Les Archer. "Nobody else seems to want to. I cannot believe this is happening."

"The villages are the worst off," said the Rev. Emmon McMahon, an Irish missionary in shell-pocked Owerri. "They have no food. Their money is useless and we have no way of getting anything to them."

More than 1,000 tons of food and medicine for Biafra are stacked up in warehouses at Libreville in Gabon, 4,000 tons more are on Sao Tome island and an equal amount is en route by ship, but Biafrans may never see any of it.

Relief Forbidden

The Lagos government, irked that relief agencies had helped starving Biafrans during the war, blacklisted them. Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, Nigeria's head of government, said last week, "Let them keep their blood money." Nigeria, he said, could do the job of relief itself, suggesting that there was no particular food problem.

Lagos has reported no indication of intolerable hardship in Biafra.

In Port Harcourt, recaptured by federal troops 17 months ago and now a state capital, the state governor entertained top brass at his daughter's sumptuous wedding feast. Just a few miles away about 600 Ibo refugees were crammed into a tiny maternity home, many lying motionless in the hot sun amid vomit, dust and flies.

At a depot outside Owerri, a Swiss relief worker tearfully pulled and tugged at a pileup of children and old men and women clawing at a sack of wheat which had fallen and burst open. Nigerian soldiers rushed in with staves and palm fronds to beat off the food rioters.

McINTYRE RETIRES

James Francis Cardinal Mc Intyre, 83, right who won acclaim as a builder of churches and schools but was criticized as an archconservative on social issues, retired Wednesday on grounds of age. He was succeeded automatically as head of the Los Angeles Roman Catholic archdiocese by Archbishop Timothy J. Manning, 60, left, whom fellow churchmen describe as more moderate.

Carswell Once Endorsed Idea Of 'White Supremacy'

Irwinton, Ga. (AP) — Supreme Court nominee G. Harrold Carswell said in a 1948 campaign speech he would always be governed by the "principles of white supremacy."

"Segregation of the races is proper and the only practical and correct way of life in our states," Carswell told an American Legion chapter at Gordon, Ga., while campaigning for the Georgia legislature just two months after his graduation from Mercer University law school.

"I have always so believed," he said in the Aug. 2, 1948, speech, "and shall always so act."

Wednesday night Carswell said he finds the words "obnoxious and abhorrent" and inconsistent with his record in public office.

'Young Candidate'

In an interview on the CBS Evening News Wednesday, Carswell, 50, said he read a summary of what is "attributed to me as a young candidate."

He then repudiated the statements and added, "There is nothing in my private life, nor is there anything in my public record of some 17 years, which could possibly indicate that I harbor racist sentiments or the insulting suggestion of racial superiority. I do not do so and my record so shows."

Carswell, judge of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court, was nominated Monday by President Nixon to fill the Supreme Court post vacated by Abe Fortas, who resigned last year under criticism for his financial dealings.

Haynsworth Rejected

An earlier Nixon nominee for the post, U.S. 4th Circuit Court Judge Clement F. Haynsworth was rejected by the Senate after a debate over his finances.

The Nixon administration which had given Carswell "complete clearance," rushed to his defense Wednesday night saying he is "firmly committed to the constitutional and moral philosophy of racial equality."

At the same time, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announced its opposition to the nomination and said some of his rulings as a judge "reflect some of those earlier views."

The speech was printed in full in the official records of Wilkinson County, Ga., and published Aug. 13, 1948, in the Irwinton Bulletin, a weekly newspaper edited by Carswell at the time.

Iraq Executes 22 After Breaking 'Plot' Backed By U.S., Iran

Beirut, Lebanon (AP) — Firing squads and the hangman executed 22 persons Wednesday in lightning retribution for a frustrated attempt to overthrow the leftist Iraqi government, Baghdad radio announced.

A broadcast accused the United States and Iran of master-minding the alleged plot against the government of President Ahmed Hassan el Bakr.

Foiling of the alleged plot was announced at noon. Within hours, a special three-man court sent four groups of Iraqis to their deaths.

Those doomed included active and retired army and police officers and four civilians.

The military men were shot and the civilians were hanged, the broadcasts indicated.

At least four of those executed were senior officers in the regime of the late King Faisal of Iraq. They were pensioned off after a republican revolt assassinated the king in July 1958.

VC Shell 51 Places

Saigon (AP) — The Viet Cong shelled 51 allied bases and towns in Vietnam Tuesday night and early Wednesday in their heaviest rocket and mortar attack since the night of Sept. 4-5 when 74 were hit, the U.S. Command reported.

Two American soldiers were killed and 23 wounded in the shellings, about two-thirds of which were made on the 3rd Corps area, stretching from Saigon 100 miles north to the Cambodian border, spokesmen said.

Light damage and casualties were reported in about 25 of the attacks. Field reports said 16 South Vietnamese soldiers and 15 civilians were wounded.

Panel Rules Justifiable Killing Of 2 Panthers

The New York Times

Chicago — A blue-ribbon coroner's jury ruled Wednesday that the deaths of two Black Panthers slain in a pre-dawn police raid were "justifiable."

The verdict on the deaths of Fred Hampton, 21, chairman of the Illinois chapter of the Black Panther Party, and Mark Clark, 22, a Panther from Peoria, came after more than five hours of deliberation.

Attorneys for the Black Panthers, representing the families of the two dead men, had not called any witnesses during the inquest.

They said they feared to reveal their plans for the defense of the seven Panthers who survived the raid. A Cook County grand jury is considering attempted murder indictments against the seven.

In identically worded statements, the six-man coroner's jury found that "solely on the evidence presented" the deaths of the two Panthers were "justified."

Both men were shot to death during a raid on a cramped, five-room West Side apartment at 4:40 a.m. Dec. 4 by police attached to the state's attorney's office carrying a search warrant for the weapons.

The police have said the two men died during a fierce gun battle lasting at least 10 minutes, touched off when people in the apartment opened fire on them with shotguns.

The Panthers have charged that the police came in shooting and that Hampton was "murdered in his bed."

Savings, Loan Associations Can Increase Interest Rates

Washington (AP) —The Federal Home Loan Bank Board Wednesday "with some reluctance" raised the interest rates that saving and loans associations can pay their depositors and set up a broad new spectrum of savings accounts.

"We took this action as a board despite our opposition to any action at this time," Chairman Preston Martin told a news conference.

He emphasized several times that the board took the action only as a matter of necessity after both the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. acted on Tuesday to allow commercial banks and mutual savings banks to increase their interest rates on time deposits.

Under the new schedule, S&Ls will be allowed to offer 5% interest on passbook accounts, up from 4¾% in most states. In five western states and some metropolitan areas the rate is already 5% and those will remain the same.

In addition, provision was made for a "golden passbook" account that will pay a maximum of 5¼%. The same rate will apply to three-month certificates of deposit. Certificates with maturities of six months to a year will remain at 5¼%.

Rates on certificates for one to two years were raised to 5¾% from 5¼%, while two-year certificates remain at 6%. The two-year certificate was first offered last month, but was restricted to savers who had $10,000 accounts at the time. The new one will be open to everyone, with a $10,000 minimum.

In addition, the board set up a new $100,000 certificate bearing interest ranging from 6½% to 7½%, depending on the length of maturity. The minimum term is 60 days and the maximum interest rate is reached at one year.

Rachel's Champ Steer Sets New Price Record

. . . $12,180 Total, $10.50 Per Pound, Paid For Tear Drop

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Denver — Rachel Doeschot of Firth, Neb., received a total of $12,180 here Wednesday for Tear Drop, her champion steer at the National Western Stock Show.

The sale of Tear Drop established a new high price of $10.50 per pound on a bid made by Robert Campbell, vice president of Safeway Stores.

The previous high price paid for a champion steer at the National Western Stock Show was $10.35 per pound that was paid in 1968 to Randy Helms of Holbrook, Neb.

Nebraska News

Miss Doeschot said that one-tenth of the purchase price received from Safeway Stores would be donated to religious organizations.

The strain of being at the National Western Livestock Show cost Tear Drop some pounds.

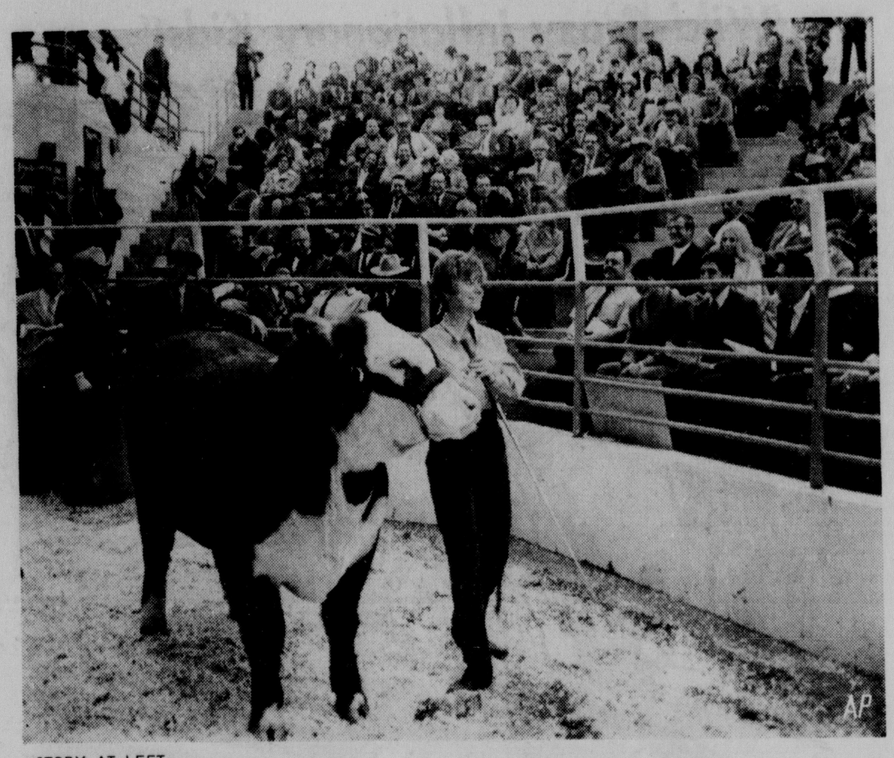

It was estimated that on arrival last week Tear Drop weighed 1,225 pounds but after he sold for the new record price he could only muster 1,160 pounds.

'One Of Greatest'

Veteran livestock men in attendance at Denver termed Tear Drop "one of the greatest steers to ever enter a show."

Miss Doeschot received many compliments on her herdsmanship and showmanship abilities in guiding her entry to a first place class win, then to the junior championship of the show, and later to the champion steer award against veteran showman from the open class show.

Tear Drop was produced at the Lester Herman Ranch at Lakeside, Neb., and had been sold as a calf to Miss Doeschot.

Rural Taxation Action Group Expansion Eyed

Cozad (AP) — Plans for expanding the five-county Committee for Action on Rural Taxation from a regional group into a statewide organization were described Wednesday by Jack Cary of Kearney.

Cary said the group now numbers about 600 families in Buffalo, Adams, Dawson, Phelps and Hall counties. It was formed to investigate rising taxes and the reasons behind the increases.

Only last Friday the group brought an injunction action in Buffalo County District Court seeking to prevent Buffalo County from using property reappraisal figures provided by the Justin A. Haynes Co., under contract with the county.

The suit named the Buffalo County Board, the State of Nebraska, the state tax commissioner, and the county treasurer and assessor.

Cary also described a meeting held in Ravenna Tuesday night in which some 400 persons participated in a question-and-answer session on taxes. State Sen. Lelie Robinson of Kearney and County Supervisors Jack Lowe and Ted Asher attended.

Norfolk's Catholic Schools To Continue At Least 3 Years

. . . Students Credited With Changing Plan

Norfolk (AP) — Members of Sacred Heart-St. Mary's Parish planning committee voted to keep the Catholic school system in Norfolk intact for at least a three-year period.

It was decided after a study begun last September the school system would have to be closed. However, students at Norfolk Catholic High School were credited with a change in the parishioners' attitude.

The students were said to have inspired their parents to provide added funds through a "save-our-schools program" in which they raised $1,100 through various odd jobs.

The committee also decided to form a permanent parish council to coordinate all activities, policies and the fund-raising programs.

Atkinson Catholic School Closing

Atkinson (AP) — St. Joseph's High School will close at the end of the current school year, the parish school board said Wednesday.

Operation of the elementary school will continue.

The decision came as a result of three studies: one showed decreasing enrollment; aging physical facilities; and an increasing financial burden.

The Bendictine Sisters of Atchison, Kan., who have staffed the school since 1916, said they would withdraw nuns from the high school faculty.

The third study was that of the Omaha archdiocese which showed Catholic education available 18 miles away in O'Neill.

Rear Adm. Jesus Carbonell Izquierdo was appointed inspector general of the armed forces and Gen. Roberto Morean Soto chief of joint general staff.

The fourth most important military job went to Gen. Victor M. Maldonado, who becomes commander in chief of the army.

Caldera has a program for reorganization of the armed forces.

New Freight Run Longest For Nation

Omaha (AP) — The Union Pacific and two other railroads are combining to operate the longest regularly scheduled freight train run in history.

Going into operation Wednesday, the train will provide daily service from Florida to the Pacific Northwest, a distance of 3,311 miles.

A breakaway section of the train will head west from North Platte, Neb., to California points.

Named the "Coast-to-Coast Express," CCX in railroad jargon, the new train pools locomotives among the three railroads.

The railroads said the train will bypass most classification yards and stop only for inspections, crew changes and icing of perishable commodities.

UP engines will go through to Jacksonville, Fla., while Frisco and Seaboard locomotives will go as far west as North Platte.

Kennedy Gathers Ag Opinion For His Trip To Washington

Grand Island (AP) — A representative of the On-The-Farm Grain Storage Association says he intends to take the opinion of the Nebraska farmer to Washington.

The president of the association, State Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove, said he has requested an appointment with Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin early next month.

Kennedy met with about 300 persons here and gathered their opinion on current farm problems.

Kennedy said he is seeking the restoration of advance feed grain payments and the Facility Loan Program.

The Nixon Administration previously announced that feed grain payments would be made in July this year. Formerly half of the payments were made in the spring and half in the fall.

The Facility Loan Program granted farmers low interest loans to buy grain storage equipment. The program has been discontinued.

Among those present was J. J. Exon of Lincoln, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. Exon told newsmen he intended to make the farm issue one of his main campaign issues.

Young Farmers Select Ferris As State Chief

Grand Island — David R. Ferris of Central City was chosen president of the Nebraska Young Farmers Educational Association at the group's annual meeting in Grand Island.

Lenhart Leners of Filley was chosen vice president; Jerome Woockman of Norfolk, secretary; Tom Davis of Herman, treasurer; and Don Althouse of Waverly, reporter. B. E. Gingery serves as state advisor.

An Ak-Sar-Ben award was presented to the Holbrook NYFEA unit for being the outstanding chapter. Other Ak-Sar-Ben awards went to Ronald Stockfleth of Hooper for crops proficiency and to Victor H. Bracht of West Point for livestock proficiency.

Almost 50 policemen from southeast Nebraska and northeast Kansas are at Pershing this week for a Police School, sponsored by the Gage County sheriff's office and the Beatrice Police Department.

Broken Bow (UPI) — Dale Harmon of Lexington has been named the new executive secretary of the Nebraska Motel Association.

Harmon is the new Chamber of Commerce manager at Lexington. He succeeds Dean Hollenbaum, manager of the Yancey Hotel in Grand Island, in the motel organization's position.

Nebraska Ag Council OKs Change In Decision Making

A major change in policy for the Nebraska Agricultural Council was approved by a majority of council members in a meeting here Wednesday.

Since its inception the two-year-old Council has required a unanimous vote of members for action involving a resolution or policy stateemnt on agricultural legislation or a decision that involved executive branches of government.

An amendment to the articles of incorporation of the Nebraska Agricultural Council was made by the voting members Wednesday that allows a decision to be made on two-thirds approval of the membership.

Several members of the council had contended that the unanimous vote requirement had stymied action of the council on many questions.

In the annual election of officers Melvin Kuska of Fairmont was named chairman. Kuska represents the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association.

Other officers named included; Ray Ratliff, York, vice chairman; and Ed Janda, Lawrence, secretary-treasurer.

YORK COUNTY FIRST TO MEET 4-H FUND GOAL

York County is the first Nebraska county to meet its goal of contributions toward a Nebraska fund to help with National 4-H Center expansion and Nebraska 4-H planning, according to Louie Rudman, associate state 4-H leader at the University of Nebraska.

Roland Epp of Lushton and Mrs. Max Smith of York, chairman and treasurer, respectively, of the York County 4-H Council, presented the check for $679.20 tto Rudman.

The National 4-H Center expansion fund will receive $37,500, or 80% of the Nebraska goal of $45,000. The remaining 20% will be used for Nebraska 4-H needs and special programming, Rudman said.

The goal amounts to $1.20 per member, based on an average of the 1967-68 enrollment in the Nebraska 4-H program, he said.

The York contribution was raised through the 4-H food stand at the York County Fair. York County 4-H'ers plan to remodel their food and pop stand in 1970, Rudman said.

Other Nebraska county goals which have been set are: Boone, $295; Cherry, $243.60; Custer, $804; Dixon, $386.40; Franklin, $255.60; Furnas, $361; Howard, $300; Madison, $498; Morrill, $361.20; Nance, $406.80; Red Willow, $501.60; Sarpy, $820; Saunders, $900; Seward, $637.20; Sheridan, $500; Sherman, $240; Sioux, $183.60; Thurston, $241.20; Valley, $438; and York, $679.20.

Results Of Lung Testing Available In 25 Seconds

By RICHARD W. BUCK

Omaha (AP) — Medical equipment for testing lung diseases — so compact it can be taken in the back of a station wagon and used wherever there is a telephone — was demonstrated Wednesday.

The equipment feeds data into a computer at the University of Nebraska Medical Center and receives the results in 25 seconds.

By testing how fast, hard and long a person can exhale a deep breath, the system can tell if the persons may have any or three major lung diseases — emphysema, bronchitis or asthma.

When a person has emphysema, explained Dr. Irving Kass, director of the pulmonary disease section of the medical center, air can get into his lungs, but not back out.

He said asthma occurs in bursts or spasms, during which air flow is blocked both into and out of the lungs. Bronchitis is marked by inflamed lungs and excessive production of mucus.

The testing machine, called a wedge spirometer, has been in use for several years. But NU researchers say theirs is the first program to link the equipment with a computer for immediate results while the patient waits.

The test and receipt and explanation of the results takes just two and a half minutes.

The portable equipment consists of the spirometer, an oscilloscope with a television-like screen, a computer printer and telephone hookup equipment.

'Mass Screening'

"We're on the threshold of mass screening throughout the country," said Dr. Kass.

The tests show if there is an impeded air flow from a person's lungs. Diagnosis of a specific disease is made by an attending physician.

Researchers hope to test thousands of people in Nebraska and South Dakota in the next few years, said Dr. Kass. They may take the equipment in a van similar to that used to test for tuberculosis.

Those two states comprise one of 50 medical regions in the nation defined by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Dr. Kass said the testing could be done on a regional basis throughout the country.

Air pollution, especially when combined with smoking, is the greatest cause of the chronic lung diseases, Dr. Kass said.

He predicted that soon emphysema, bronchitis and asthma will kill more people annually than lung cancer and tuberculosis combined.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

According to spokesmen for various anti-tax groups in the state, a tax revolution might be in the making. Latest to speak out was Dr. D. D. Lock of Beatrice, a dentist who says "we're all unhappy about the promised tax relief which didn't come." He added a criticism of Gage County valuations.

There is no question that the tax burden is a heavy one but a lot more than that is involved. The taxpayers of this nation, for instance, pay on an average considerably less than that paid by citizens in many other countries.

And to local taxes, they pretty well reflect the needs of the citizenry. We wonder what it is that taxpayers would like to eliminate when they object to the funds they must pay to state and local governments?

Do people want streets and highways of a lower quality? You would not think so from the way they talk. Complaints about the inadequacy of streets and highways are heard constantly. Everywhere state highway officials go, the local citizens ask for additional road work in their area.

In the cities and counties, it is the same thing. Rural areas want graveling and paving and city residents complain bitterly if streets are bumpy or if traffic does not move quickly enough to suit them.

And when it comes to local tax relief, it is heavy in streets and highways. Both the state and federal government pour millions into city streets and county roads. If it were not for this assistance, local mill levies against property would be substantially higher than they now are.

Cities and counties are now splitting up about $10 million a year in state aid as a replacement for loss in 1967 of the intangible, head and personal property taxes. Once again, local mill levies are lower as a result of this state aid.

In education, state aid is becoming big business. The school districts around the state now enjoy a $70 million appropriation biennially from the state's general fund. Again, local mill levies would shoot up if this money were not provided at the state level.

Additionally, there is state aid for junior colleges, for area vocational-technical schools and other local purposes. During the last session of the Legislature, Sen. Terry Carpenter estimated that total state aid to local government could hit $150 million a year under pending programs and we are not today very far from that figure.

This includes public welfare assistance payments, which hit $33 million in the last biennium, but that is still local relief. Welfare is a state responsibility but if the state did not assume it, local governments would have to do so. This biennium, we have added direct state aid to local governments in the area of mental retardation programs.

Anyone who says that we have had no local tax relief since switching to the sales and income tax is not being honest. But local tax relief does not necessarily mean lower taxes.

Local school district levies, for instance, have certainly not declined. In most cases, they have increased. But the demands of education are getting greater every year and it costs more today to educate our children than it did five or 10 years ago.

State aid to education has not made local tax levies lower, but it has made them a lot less than they would be if there were no state aid. And we doubt that education would be a very popular place to try to start economizing in any big way.

There is currently a clamor for state aid in the field of water pollution control. Our guess is that state aid will be provided in the next session of the Legislature. Such aid will then make local costs go up as funds are provided to match the state and federal expenditures.

Thus, the total tax bite will increase. But again, do we want to forego this and continue dumping our sewage into our streams? Even if we wanted to, the federal government would not permit it.

When you talk about local property tax relief, there is a lot more to look at than just your total tax bill.

Head In The Sand

Former Lincolnite Sam Yorty, a personable, nice guy who is still a Husker football fan and who is serving his third term as mayor of Los Angeles, returned to his home state this week purportedly to speak on solutions to urban problems.

As chief executive of one of the nation's fastest growing cities, he should be well-equipped to handle the subject.

Yorty, however, strayed from his chosen subject to discuss a wide range of topics which have some currency and about which he professes a great deal of expertise. Nixon is doing very well, Yorty said. The President's troop withdrawal and Vietnamization program is going well and it should meet the challenge to end the war. The U.S. Supreme Court needs to change. The vice president is correct in his comments about the inaccuracy of the news media. He, Yorty, might run for governor of California because the present governor is an amateur.

Mayor Sam kissed off the subject of solving urban problems by saying that his administration has eliminated industrial pollution in Los Angeles and now the automobile industry should solve the exhaust pollution problem before the federal government steps in.

He said he is satisfied with the Nixon administration effort in the urban area. More money is not the answer. "Most mayors . . . are crying wolf . . . making out like the whole problem is money," Yorty said. He suggests that Los Angeles is fortunate because it does not "have the kind of slums like Harlem." Remember Watts, the blacks and the Mexican-Americans, Mayor. Remember that pollution still exists and will increase and remember Los Angeles' pathetic backlog in capital improvement needs.

No wonder cities have problems if mayors can't recognize them. If Mayor Yorty can write off Watts, what can we expect?

It Takes Teamwork

Elsewhere on this page yesterday, mention was made of some of the matters presented to Lincoln business and civic leaders by planning consultant Laurence Alexander of New York. Not discussed yesterday in specific detail was the reference made by Alexander to the need for co-ordinated and concentrated improvement of the downtown area.

There is no question that this is a valid point to make. While Lincoln downtown has maintained its viability to a great extent, it has been due largely to individual efforts.

At the same time, isolated pockets of deterioration have developed. The thing we must guard against is any acceleration of the process of deterioration or decay. Many other cities have found that they waited too long to stop this process. They waited until it was too late, until so much was lost that nothing could be saved.

It is incumbent upon business property owners to recognize the plurality of their interest. They do not exist alone, but rather, in harmony with their neighbors. They cannot prosper alone, but rather, are partly dependent upon those who surround them.

Thus, a businessman who considers only himself and his own property is making a mistake. For the sake of the entire area in which he does business, he may be called upon to make some sacrifices and do some things that he would ordinarily not do if the decision were his alone. No downtown will prosper if those doing business there cannot find the means or co-operation.

Alexander also mentioned urban renewal and this is a tool that certainly can be used to bridge the difficulties that often fly in the face of a co-ordinated program. It may or may not be the proper tool at this time for Lincoln but the ends it would serve must be achieved in some way.

Roller Derby

Lincoln, Neb.

I thought wrestling was rough, but it's tame compared to a roller derby. I watch them sometimes on the Sunday channels.

I don't know the rules or how the scores are added. To me, it seems as if each team is trying to maim or murder the other young men or women who make up the teams.

Recently one husky player picked up a small youngster and threw him bodily over the guard rail. He landed on his back but managed to climb back in the rink where he was knocked down and straddled and pounded in the face until there was blood. When they were separated, the game went on.

The young women are knocked and batted over the rail, too. The way they battle, I wonder how their insides are ever the same again. It looks as if there would be bones broken and brains knocked silly.

No wonder the world is so full of war madness, when games are so savage.

GOP Tactics

Scotia, Neb

On "Meet The Press" on Sunday, January 18, Ford said in effect that it is very important to elect persons who will go along with the Nixon propaganda. He was then asked if he would have more Republicans, and he admitted that was so.

The longer the Vietnam war drags on, the longer they think they can stay in power. Nixon tried to prolong desegregation and also tried to appoint judges who would be against integration. He associates himself with the conservatives, the big-money boys, but he is missing with the welfare program. Workers, poor men, actual producers of real wealth should not expect any real help from this administration. It didn't hit the oil depletion very hard, but the welfare program needed to be scuttled, of course (the GOP view of it).

Some programs that the Democrats proposed are being used now, but by other names.

Isn't it a crying shame when big-city Pius gets beaten by the tiny neighboring village of Waverly in basketball? But that's just the way that old ball bounced!

In the Saturday morning Star, there was an excellent description of Pius's futile attempts in the last fleeting moments of the game. However, it seems The Star failed to give any credit to a fine Waverly team for their great ball-playing throughout the entire game.

Next time try to be a little more "un-Piused" in game write-ups.

Little Thanks

Lincoln, Neb.

Answering "Disgusted's" letter in the January 19 Star, I have been "involved" before the matter ever came up in Lincoln about the elderly man and the electric light bulbs and newspapers to keep warm. Many times the old folks will tell a person to mind his own darned business. I have been told this, and it seems pretty thankless.

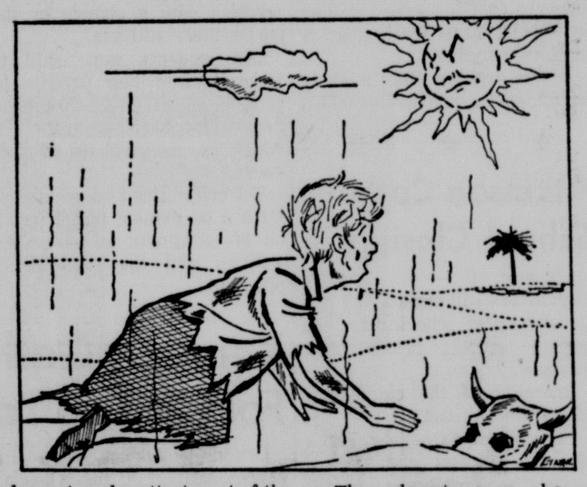

And about the woman in Omaha who had her purse taken from her by a gang on the bus, such thugs can be sent back out again on probation and return to their old pursuits of splitting heads. Karate and judo are not much help when a person has a knife at his throat or a loaded revolver in his back.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

Tonight the icy fingers of winter have clasped the whole outdoors in a death-like grip. The bare trees stand bleak and rugged against the frigid blasts that seem to shriek in delight. Now and then the house snaps and pops as the temperature drops below the zero mark. With each snap, I snuggle deeper into my easy chair, glad to be within the close confines of four walls that keep the cold out and make winter evenings more pleasant.

When I see explorers on TV going by dog sled across the frigid wasteland of the far North, I shudder just watching their breath freeze on their parkas. I am always curious as to why they choose to explore such regions of the world. But when I see such things as crawling over ice floes to get to other outposts while the wind howls and sled dogs bark, I do more than shudder. I almost fall apart at the seams wondering why man would ever want to face such elements.

On the other hand, I could not bring myself to explore or travel in the extreme heat and insect-laden climate of the jungle. I will gladly take the word of others who have been there who say the orchids are the most beautiful in the deepest and wettest part of the jungle.

I would not be a mountain climber for I am deathly afraid of heights with an elevation that is more than one ladder-step off the ground. I almost lose my breath when the climbers dangle by ropes anchored above them on a small peg. I grimace when they lose their footing and the stones begin to shift beneath their feet.

Come to think of it, I would not want to go crawling about below the surface of the ground, either, in search of new caves. Though I may have the title of a spelunker, which sounds impressive enough, I would not enter the deep, dark mouth of a cave if I knew a gold nugget waited deep inside. I will believe there are beautiful crystal palaces below without going to see them myself.

Now, about the ocean depths. I know they are there with caverns made of lovely coral formations and queer fish swimming about with unusual coloration and form. I would not go down to the dark depths of the sea for two reasons. First, I am scared to death of water if it gets ankle-deep. Secondly, I hate sharks. I would shudder to think if I became one of the links in the shark's food chain. So I will stay away from the ocean floor, quite content to let those who care to explore its mystery.

The desert may be a delightful blend of subtle coloration at sunset to one who would explore the far reaches of its boundary but I am not particularly fond of sand storms and I do not have a nose like a camel that I can close during such a storm to prevent suffocation. I do not get enthused at the thought of crawling toward a mirage crying, "Water, water. Cool, cool water."

The nomadic Bedouin, roaming the desert, pitching his goat-hair tent, may be quaint and picturesque. I would not argue the point with anyone who has been there. But so long as someone has been there to see and hear, it eliminates the necessity of my going which is fine with me.

Come to think of it, I much prefer to be an armchair traveler to such unexplored regions. Tonight with the wind wailing is an ideal time for such traveling. I do hope there is a good travelogue on some channel. If there is, I may be in Timbuktu in a few minutes, with eyes popping in disbelief and heart pounding for some victim caught in the swirl of an underground river. If so, it will not be my feet getting wet. I will be cozy and comfy, contented and happy to take the sights and sounds of anyone for the gospel truth, so long as the river stays away from my door and the sand does not blow in my eyes.

McKay Considered Saint By Mormons

WASHINGTON — Three million Mormons looked upon David O. McKay, who died this week in his 96th year, as a prophet in the same sense as Moses or Abraham.

The high and mighty came to his book-lined office where he used to sit behind the old roll-top desk that once belonged to Brigham Young. But he was even more accessible to the meek and humble.

Once, during a tour of England on a busy schedule, he overheard his son Llewelyn turn away a small girl in a blue dress who wanted the prophet's autograph. McKay beckoned his son aside.

"Never hurt a child," he said gently. "Don't underestimate their feelings."

Then he turned to sign the autograph, but the disappointed girl had vanished. Two dozen churchmen combed the crowd for a girl in a blue dress, but she could not be found.

Next day, driving to another town, McKay still had the child uppermost in his mind. He asked the head of the Mormon church in Britain to find her and send her autograph book to him. He was not at ease until this had been accomplished several days later.

Note: At the village of Sauniatu in Samoa stands a monument commemorating McKay's visit in 1921. He had just dismounted from his horse, hung his umbrella on a pulu tree and pronounced a blessing on the village when a woman brought her baby to him to be healed. The child appeared to be dead, but responded miraculously to his laying-on of hands. Now grown, the baby known as Silita is still alive in New Zealand.

Sen. Ted Kennedy is deeply upset over the abuse his wife Joan has been receiving as a result of the Mary Jo Kopechne tragedy. While Joan was in the hospital to have her tonsils removed, a troubled Ted told friends, she received several nasty telephone calls . . . The cabinet was kept in closed session for more than two hours the other day until the distinguished participants began to squirm on their hard chairs. Finally President Nixon announced: "We are cutting all other budgets, but one thing I am going to fight for in the White House budget is to replace these hard chairs." . . . The question came up at the cabinet meeting of improving the interrelationship between cabinet members. Agreeing, the President invited cabinet members with recommendations for the Supreme Court to send their ideas "to John." This was a mischievous reference to Attorney General John Mitchell, whose recommendation of Judge Clement Haynsworth backfired . . .

Contrary to press speculation, President Nixon didn't ask Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., to withdraw from the California Senate race during their recent White House visit. Although they discussed the campaign briefly, Murphy took up most of the time urging the President to follow a stronger pro-Israel line in the Middle East.

Martin Resigning As Head Of Federal Reserve; 'Happy Puritan' Has Held Tight-Money Policy

WASHINGTON — In the hugger mugger over the so-called tax reform bill that is now law, the White House and the congressional conference committee played a final round of threat and counterthreat. The President's aides insist that the massive 100-page bill would have been vetoed if the committee had not trimmed back certain benefits, conspicuously the individual exemption which the Senate had raised from the current $600 to $800.

Through it all there was one uncompromising voice. Twice, during the days when the decision presumably hung in the balance, President Nixon put in urgent calls for William McChesney Martin Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, at Harbour Island in the Bahamas where Martin was vacationing.

Asked for his advice, Martin recommended a veto. He was convinced the bill was inflationary. When the pluses and minuses are set off one against the other, the total of tax reduction in the fiscal year 1971 adds up to $2.7 billion. As the Nixon budget-makers save on candle ends to try to get a balanced budget, that sum looms very large.

At one point Martin believed the President would veto the bill. But, given the great effort of the tax specialists in Congress over many months and the angry outcry which would have greeted a veto, that was more than could be expected of any President.

Now Martin is departing, Retiring at the end of the month, he has so long been a landmark that Washington will not be the same. In the era of affluence and inflation, he stands out as a kind of rustic nay sayer, an early American artifact carved out of some tough, resistant wood.

The tight-money policy that Martin has carried through with the considerable powers of the Fed's chairmanship is in large part responsible for the slowdown of the economy and the falling off of housing starts. The Wall Street community would cheerfully boil him in oil. Even some conservative economists believe the money supply has been turned down so tightly by the Fed's action that a recession is all but inevitable.

Often during his 19 years heading what has been, in effect, a fourth and autonomous branch of government, Martin has stood up to both president and Congress. His complaint has been that the burden of stemming inflation rests far too heavily on money policy — money and credit — as against fiscal policy where budget-balancing is subject to irresistible political pressures. In 1965 Martin defied Lyndon Johnson, and the Federal Reserve Board raised the discount rate. The prime interest rate has steadily climbed since then to today's record 8½ per cent.

Yet he conducts himself with such evident goodwill, not to mention political skill, that he has remained on close terms with the five presidents with whom he has dealt. James Reston dubbed him aptly the "Happy Puritan." While his views often sound like those of an early Christian surveying the decadence and the runaway economy of ancient Rome, he keeps a cheerful countenance.

When he goes to an occasional cocktail party (he neither smokes nor drinks) at his Bahamian retreat, he is the sign and symbol of an earlier America. The other males are decked out in brilliant colored slacks and fancy blazers. Wearing a gray business suit off the rack of a department store, Martin is the model of the sober businessman who keeps a close eye on the books. Yet he enjoys life. At 63 his tennis is as fast as that of most players half his age.

His somber thoughts on inflation are well-grounded. Prior to his service at the Fed as president of the Export-Import Bank, he knew at firsthand the plague that a price explosion can mean to a swiftly developing economy. He speaks of Brazil where seesawing — mostly upward — inflation threatens the nation's stability. The infusion of American government loans and private investment started the upward, largely unrestrained, spiral.

The disparity between extreme wealth and extreme poverty here at home widens despite what seem to be stringent tax laws.

The Fed's own statistics show how the inflationary bubble has been sustained. As of the end of November (without the Christmas bulge) installment credit was $96.5 billion, an $8.5 billion increase in 12 months. In addition there was $23 billion of noninstallment credit, an increase of nearly a billion, plus $2 billion in the bank credit cards.

Martin is turning over the reins to a successor, Arthur F. Burns, counselor to the President, who shares many of Martin's views. He faces the difficult, perhaps impossible, task that has so long absorbed the Happy Puritan.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Wife Discovers Husband's Destination Is Pool Hall, Not Library

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. — "My husband retired last year at 66. The past few months he has been leaving the house around 10 a.m. saying he's going to the public library. But since he's not the literary type I got suspicious and followed him two days the past week. Instead of the library he goes to a dingy recreation hall in a cheap part of town where he sits drinking beer watching bums play pool. He has never lied to me before and he's not the pool-hall type, having sold fine china and glassware before retiring. I haven't confronted him yet. What should I do?"

A. — Don't make a big fuss—The library fib is likely intended as a kindness because he doesn't want to upset or disgrace you. He's probably only going to the pool hall by default since he hasn't found a more relaxing way to kill time. Check and find what clubs exist for older people. If there are no clubs, consider organizing one and get him to help you. Try to stimulate his interest in volunteer hospital chores, woodworking, gardening or a part-time job. Many retired men follow the line of least resistance and need wifely prodding toward worthwhile diversions.

Q. — "What can be done about excessive moving charges? I'm a widow, 68, and last month wanted to move my three rooms of furniture to a new apartment 10 blocks away. The man from the moving company wouldn't give me a final figure, but said it would probably cost around $200, including some crating. After they got everything moved they handed me a bill for $300. I almost died since I've got just a small income, but they insisted I pay or said they'd put everything in storage till I did. What can be done about cases like this?"

A. — Report this to your mayor's office and the Better Business Bureau. Your city may also have a commissioner of consumer services who should know about this. Next time, get estimates from at least three moving firms and insist on firm figures — with not more than 10% variance. Folks on small incomes should also try and do their own moving. With the help of a husky friend and a rental truck, possessions can usually be moved easily and inexpensively.

Q. — "We recently moved to the same city as our daughter and her family. We were absolutely shocked at our son-in-law's strictness toward their three darling children. He's like a Hitler — won't let them chatter or giggle at the table, makes them ask his permission before watching TV, won't permit any running or roughhousing, and actually spanked the seven-year-old right in front of us for accidentally knocking a lamp off the table. Our daughter doesn't seem to mind but we're so upset it's an ordeal to visit them. Do you blame us for wanting to take those poor terrified kids home with us?"

A. — Grandparents often tend to be overly tolerant of grandchildren. Unless there's evidence of actual abuse or cruelty, I don't think you should get involved. After all, your daughter doesn't seem upset and I'm sure you realize attitudes and reactions observed on an occasional visit to a home can appear quite different with those which actually exist. Remember the play "Life With Father"? The central figure was an exceedingly strict father, but he was fair and in the long run deeply loved and respected by his children.

If you would like a booklet, "Employment Tips for Older People," write to Robert Peterson, c/o Dispatch Letter Service, 25 W. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10036, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

One Convicted Slayer Denied Sentence Change

. . . Another Gets Consideration

By The Associated Press

The convicted slayer of a five-year-old Hastings boy has been denied consideration needed to revise his life prison sentence, it was reported Wednesday.

But the State Parole Board has recommended a change in the sentence of a second convicted murderer who once was sentenced to die.

The question in both cases was whether the parole board would recommend the commutation of life sentences, said Parole Board Chairman John B. Greenholtz. A life termer's sentence first must be commuted by the State Board of Parole to a definite number of years before he can be considered for parole.

Denied was an application on behalf of Daniel R. Smith, 40, who was sentenced in Adams County to life imprisonment on a conviction of first degree murder in the 1954 slaying in Hastings of young Patrick Walsh.

Smith killed the boy and "brutally assaulted his mother," Greenholtz said, indicating public sentiment had run against any alteration of Smith's sentence.

Recommended for pardon board consideration on the basis of an "outstanding prison record" was the Douglas County case of Stanley John Nowicki, 47, of Omaha, Greenholtz said.

Nowicki was sentenced to be executed but later won commutation to life imprisonment for first degree murder in the 1956 stabbing death of his former wife.

Greenholtz said evidence indicated the stabbing occurred during a family quarrel while Nowicki, under the influence of alcohol, was questioning the fidelity of his wife.

Of 22 cases before the board of parole, four candidates were paroled to states other than Nebraska, Greenholtz said.

Parole was denied, he said, to Wayne Van Riper, 22, of Omaha. Van Riper was serving a four-year burglary sentence from Douglas County begun Jan. 19, 1967.

Greenholtz said Van Riper had committed his current offense while free on parole and had a recent disciplinary offense on his record at the penitentiary.

Deferred until June was consideration of parole for Bob Pugh, 50, of Auburn, who was serving a four-year sentence from Jan. 20, 1969, on an Otoe County conviction of uttering a forged instrument.

Inmates earning paroles, with nature of their crime, county of sentence, term and date of committal were:

Cecil Le Roy Davis, 36, Iowa, breaking and entering, Cedar, eight years, May 9, 1967.

Bryan Justice Adams, 23, Fremont, uttering a no account check, Dodge, 1-3 years, Jan. 2, 1969.

Kenneth Duane Barbee, 24, South Dakota, possessing a forged instrument, Douglas 2-4 years, Dec. 12, 1968.

Robert Louis Freeman, 30, Iowa, uttering a forged instrument, Douglas, 2-4 years, Jan. 17, 1968.

James M. Johnson, 28, Colorado, possessing a forged instrument, Douglas, 1-2 years, March 5, 1969

William F. Maliszewski, 22, Omaha, leaving the state as a parolee, Douglas, 18 months, Nov. 13, 1968.

Francis Moore, 33, Omaha, burglary, Douglas, 4 years, Sept. 20, 1967.

David Rouse, 35, Omaha, burglary, Douglas, two years, Nov. 26, 1968.

Larry Detweiler, 31, Milford, issuing a no account check, Hamilton, 3-6 years, Aug. 4, 1967.

Charles R. Heiser, 25, Lincoln, possessing cannabis, Lancaster, two years, March 8, 1968.

Leo Walter Latzel, 47, Lincoln, fondling a minor, Lancaster 3-4½ years, Nov 22, 1967.

Alan D. Savage, 40, New York, forgery and insufficient fund check, Lancaster, two years and 18 months concurrent, Jan. 24, 1969.

Joseph M Shanks, 35, Omaha, forgery, Lancaster, two years, Feb. 6, 1969.

James Williamsen, 25, Lincoln, robbery, Lancaster 3-5 years, Aug. 18, 1967.

William E. Yates, 27, Washington, attempted escape, Lancaster 1½ years, April 11, 1963.

Leo Matt Mousseaux, 42, Minatare, burglary (two counts), Morrill, two years concurrent, Feb. 17, 1969.

James Kiger, 23, Omaha, felonious assault, Washington, seven years, Dec. 14, 1966.

Study Unit Plans Hearings On Public Retirement Systems

The Legislative Council study committee will hold a series of hearings, beginning in March, to review public employe retirement systems in Nebraska.

Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland, chairman of the interim committee on retirement systems, said the hearings are intended to gather information and comment on the benefits, contributions and other provisions of the various state plans.

"The committee is attempting to learn how uniformity or consistency might be improved between the various plans," he said, "but yet recognize the differing types of employes to which the plans are applicable."

25 Systems

Nebraska statutes now relate to approximately 25 retirement systems for municipal employes, police and firemen, judges, teachers, State Patrol, troopers, county employes and state university and college employes.

Holmquist said the committee will hold initial hearings March 18 and 19 in Lincoln, but others will be scheduled later.

Working with the consulting actuarial firm of George V. Stennes and Associates, the committee has adopted a tentative list of general principles of sound retirement planning to be used in improving present retirement systems and possible future legislation.

Being Distributed

Holmquist said the tentative principles are being distributed to representatives of the various public employe retirement plans in the state for comment and suggestions in the public hearings.

Holmquist said the general principles propose the actuarial soundness of retirement systems, employer funding of any past-service benefits, and greater uniformity for specific inflation provisions in any plan.

It is also urged that all proposed changes in retirement systems must be actuarially sound and channeled through the Nebraska Retirement Systems Council.

Veto Could Cost State Schools $8 Million

The Nebraska State School Boards Association said Wednesday that Nebraska schools will lose some $8 million under President Nixon's threatened veto of the federal health, education and welfare appropriations bill.

Ross Rasmussen, executive secretary, said the association is urging the Nebraska congressional delegation to give top priority to education and oppose the pending veto.

He said the Bellevue public schools would lose $2 million, if educational provisions are vetoed, and the continued operation of the school system would be jeopardized for the remainder of this school year.

"The association believes a reasonable share of federal expenditures should be devoted to education," he said.

Rasmussen listed these major categorial cuts in federal funds to the state: educationally-deprived children, $1,026,000; federally-impacted schools, $2,976,000; vocational education, $1,542,000; school libraries, $368,000; instructional equipment, $577,000 and higher education facilities, $250,000.

Reward Posted

Fuerth, Germany (UPI) — The U.S. Army posted a $1,100 reward for information on either the robbers or the $1,000 in weapons and ammunition stolen last weekend from an Army munitions depot. The missing weapons included eight M60 machine guns, seven grenade throwers and 27 M14 automatic rifles.

In recent years, the cost of mailing out license plates by the County was 25 cents. This year I hear it will be 30 cents and all they are sending is a tiny sticker. Is this the kind of efficiency to expect from the County-City Building? —T.S.P., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: No problem. The Lancaster County Motor Vehicle Dept. will foot the bill this time for sending the tiny stickers to area residents.

On the box of most five-cent cigars, in very small print, you will find the words: "Predominantly natural tobacco with a substantial amount of non-tobacco ingredients." What are those non-tobacco ingredients? —Bill Dinneen, Exeter

ACTION LINE: Cigar manufacturers keep that information a closely guarded trade secret.

In the early 1950's, the tobacco industry developed a process for conversion of tobacco leaves into a continuous band of "homogenized" tobacco, making a milder, smoother smoke.

More than 90% of all cigars are now made with homogenized tobacco which includes certain non-tobacco ingredients that improve the combustion and ash formation of the cigar. These ingredients are selected to be neutral in taste and are kept secret among competing cigar manufacturers.

With a detailed knowledge of those ingredients, the Federal Trade Commission evolved the notice that appears on the cigar box. The notice did confuse some people, so it will be changed now to read "with non-tobacco ingredients added."

I have a deed for a lot in Lincoln Memorial Park purchased in 1947. The deed states that a person of African ancestory cannot be buried there. Is this still true? —Mrs. B., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: No. There are now no restrictions based on race, creed or nationality, according to C. E. Vanlandingham of Memorial Park.

Does Nebraska law require a person to sign his property over to county welfare to be able to receive badly needed financial or other aid? —N.W., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: County welfare reports that it does have the right to place a lien in the amount received in aid against a person's property in some cases.

However, the amount borrowed can be repaid or if the aid recipient dies, heirs can pay off the loan and reclaim the property.

Certain categories of aid require no property lien. The Aid to Dependent Children and medical assistance programs are two exceptions to the requirement.

Leahy Reports Pay Hikes

Omaha (AP) -- Mayor Eugene Leahy has given eight of his nine department directors pay increases costing the city an additional $16,212 a year, the city payroll shows.

The mayor said he had not announced the increases because he thought they were common knowledge.

The largest increase is $2,412 a year for Human Relations Director Ozzie A. Wilson, whose annual salary was boosted to $16,404.

Public Safety Director Al Pattavina and Clarence E. Shafer, director of Parks, Recreation and Public Property, were raised $2,400 a year to $20,400.

Raises of $1,800 were given Planning Director Alden F. Aust, Finance Director Edwin J. Hewitt, Public Works Director Gene E. Jordan, Personnel Director Ernest W. Howard and Public Library Director Frank E. Gibson.

City attorney Herbert M. Fitle, the ninth director, also received an $1,800 increase but this was granted by the City Council because he is classified under civil service. His total salary now is $27,120.

Aust now receives $22,440; Hewitt $25,320; Jordan $22,440; Howard $21,840; and Gibson $19,080.

Norfolk Trucker Escapes Injury

New Report Recommends Combination Of Nuclear, Fossil-Fueled Power Plants

By Associated Press

A newly released report prepared by electrical engineers says Nebraska's future needs for electricity can be met most economically by a combination of nuclear and fossil-fueled power plants.

The point is made in a "system planning study" looking to the 1972-90 period, presented Tuesday to the Nebraska Power Industry Committee (NPIC).

The new report extends and updates an original study completed in 1967, which looked at Nebraska's power needs through 1985. The earlier report concluded that expansion of generation and transmission facilities on an integrated, statewide basis could result in a potential savings of millions of dollars for electrical rate payers.

The newer report also holds that the most economical method of providing electricity in Nebraska is with a combination of nuclear and fossil-fueled plants, possibly augumented by peaking plants, according to Robert H. Ballard, member of the study group.

Ballard is system planning engineer with the Omaha Public Power District and member of the technical subcommittee which conducted the 2½-year study for the NPIC, an organization composed of representatives of all power agencies in the state.

Ballard said the studies indicated the most expensive procedure would be to construct nothing but nuclear power plants in Nebraska to meet anticipated growth needs.

The report also notes it would be more economical for power districts and municipalities to cooperate in construction of generating units than for each to act independently, Ballard said.

This Week's Health Tip

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association:

Accidents are the leading cause of death among children from one to 14 years of age. Over 90% of these accidents are preventable.

If you have small children in your home, be sure the handles of boiling pots cannot be reached. Check to see there are no open lamp sockets — cover them with safety plugs. Medicines, including aspirin and sedatives, should be locked away in a cabinet. See that there are no poisons or insecticides around.

Never leave your small child alone in the bathtub as he may turn on the hot water and be scalded, or slip under the water.

Place non-skid mats or rubber guards under throw rugs. Pick up toys, shoes and other objects which could cause accidents at night. Be extremely careful of matches and cigarette lighters.

These are just a few of the hazards children find around the home. A few minutes caution on your part could save your child serious or fatal injury.

Death Rays Possible

State Democratic Party Formally Asked To Void Kelley's Election

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Although the controversy over Democratic proxy voting has revolved chiefly about future use of the proxy system, the party has also been formally requested to void last month's election of a new national committeeman.

Tom Kelley defeated former State Chairman John Mitchell for the committeeman's post by a 53-49 count.

Forty-four of the votes cast in that election came from proxies cast in behalf of absent members of the state central committee.

Fifteen of those proxy votes have been formally challenged by Hal Blostein of Kearney, credentials chairman at the Dec. 14 meeting in Grand Island.

A copy of Blostein's five-page report to the party's state executive committee shows that he has also formally asked the party to void the election.

"I hereby challenge the election based upon such balloting," Blostein wrote in the report.

"Because of the closeness of this particular election where there was only a difference of four votes and where there are obviously far more than four votes in question, I feel it my duty both as chairman of that particular credentials committee and as a member of both the state central committee and the state executive committee to challenge those particular proxies and the results of the election."

Blostein suggested that the matter be handled within the party structure in Nebraska rather than as a challenge before the Democratic national committee or in the courts.

The state central committee should "determine whether they want to set the election aside or not," Blostein said. And that decision could then be appealed either to the national committee or the courts, he noted.

Blostein's report would indicate that at least 13 — and perhaps all 15 — proxy votes under question were cast for Kelley.

Even if the party should decide to void the election and vote again for national committeeman, Mitchell has informed central committee members he would not be a candidate again.

"Losing is part of the game," Mitchell wrote members of the committee. And "the real issue" involved in the present controversy is the system of proxy voting, not who should be committeeman, Mitchell said.

Proxies "made the difference" in the Grand Island election, Mitchell said. And Blostein's report, he pointed out, "raises serious questions of proxy manipulation."

The matter is now in the hands of a special subcommittee on party reform which will offer its recommendations to the central committee.

Planners Hear Arguments For, Against Trailer Court

City-County Planning Commission members Wednesday listened to arguments for and against locating a mobile home court on land presently zoned for single-family use.

Nebraska Realty Development Corp. had asked the planning commission to recommend on only the concept of a proposed court on 67 acres of land in southeast Lincoln. The proposed court would be located one-half mile south of Old Cheney Rd. between 48th St. and the extension of 51st St.

Architect L. E. Enersen told planning commissioners that the court would be a "high-class development in terms of layout, screening protection and amenities."

295 Spaces

The layout includes spaces for 295 mobile homes with an average space area of approximately 4,800 sq. ft. in the A-1 zoning district. Approximately 23 of the 67 acres would be used as open space.

Planning Director Doug Brogden recommended approval of the concept of the court, saying that there is "sufficient land to the east of this property that can be developed in a normal manner and perhaps independently of this development."

Brogden said the density should be further studied.

Hit Opposition

But the proposal ran into opposition from residents of the area.

Mrs. Mary Danley, whose home is a short distance from the proposed court, strongly opposed allowing any mobile home court in the area.

"This is not an area for low-cost housing," Mrs. Danley asserted.

She said that a mobile home court would be detrimental to the development of property in the area. A petition against the mobile home court with 59 signatures was presented to the commission.

Mrs. Danley said the area has consistently improved and that approval of the court would result in "shifting the wheels of progress into reverse."

Recent Ordinance

The City Council recently passed an ordinance allowing mobile properly designed home courts in residential areas.

One opponent asked where children living at the court would go to school, saying Calvert School is already overcrowded.

Brogden replied that there is a proposed school site for the area and that the school board has been requested to inform the commission on the school situaion.

The land in the general area is undeveloped. An industrial development is located immediately to the north across a road and the Briarhurst community unit plan is located to the northwest.

Proponents of the court said that the developers of Briarhurst do not oppose the plan.

New District

Commissioners will take action on the proposal next Wednesday, as well as on a request for a new zoning district to be called J Multiple Dwelling.

Lincoln real estate man J. L. McMaster Jr. appeared before commissioners in support of the new district.

The new district would permit high-rise apartments up to 275-feet high which could contain both apartment units and businesses.

Present ordinances do not permit multiple dwellings to exceed 130 feet. Different yard, parking and intensity requirements are also proposed for the new district.

Brogden has recommended denial of the new district.

Change Sought

A change of zone from F Restricted Commercial to J Multiple Dwelling has also been requested for property located between 10th and 13th Sts. on the north side of H St.

McMaster proposes to build a 12-story building on land between 12th and 13th, which would have 285 apartment units located next to exterior walls of the building and office spaces located in the central part.

Other commission business:

—Held hearing on special permit to develop a community unit plan on property north of Pioneers, east of 56th St., requested by William Keller.

—Held hearing on special permit to construct a parking lot on property south of O St., west side of 37th St., requested by Austin Realty Co.

—Held hearing on special permit to construct a lodge on property at 24th and Potter Sts., requested by Lebanon Masonic Lodge.

—Held hearing on special permit to erect and operate a sign on property at the intersection of Interstate 80 and Hwy. 77, requested by Whitehead Oil Co.

—Held hearing on proposed amendment to the County Zoning Regulations relating to permitted uses in the AA Rural and Public Use District.

—Recommended approval of vacation of east-west alley between Orchard and Y St., west of 53rd St

—Recommended approval of vacation of a portion of High St., east of 13th St.

—Recommended denial of vacation of a portion of the east-west alley between J and K Sts. and 18th and 20th Sts., after hearing to opposition from residents.

—Recommended approval of the vacation of east-west alley between Lewis and 12th Sts. and Manatt and Fairfield Sts.

—Recommended approval of the vacation of north-south alley west of 56th St. between Glade and South Sts.

—Deferred action on vacation of 8th St. from Judson St. south to alley

Meyer Seeks Re-Election As Assessor

Lancaster County Assessor Fritz Meyer said Wednesday that he would file for re-election to his post on the Republican ticket Thursday.

Meyer, 56, was first elected to

FRITZ MEYER

To Run Again

the post in 1966, having worked in the office 15 years prior to that time, six of which he served as chief deputy under former assessor Arthur Davis.

Meyer is a member of the Nebraska County Officials Association and serves as chairman of the pipeline committee for the association, is a member of the International Association of Assessing Officers, Elks Lodge, Masonic Lodge 210, Scottish Rite and Shrine.

He is married and the father of three children.

Union Contract Voting Criticized By Government

Washington (AP) —A presidential commission has recommended that construction workers elect union negotiators with binding power to negotiate labor contracts, and give up membership votes to approve or reject agreements.

"The whole concern there is to avert the growing rejection of contracts by the rank and file," said a spokesman for Labor Secretary George P. Shultz, chairman of the labor-industry-government commission.

"Our people approved it," said a source in the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department, which is composed of 17 unions with some 3.5 million members.

The labor source said there might be some opposition from local unions to giving up membership ratification votes of wage and other agreements, but that in most instances, "I don't think there is going to be adverse reaction to this."

Unions under federal labor law do not have to submit negotiated agreements to a membership vote, but most do.

Arthritis Sufferers:

Wake Up Tomorrow Morning Without All That Stiffness!

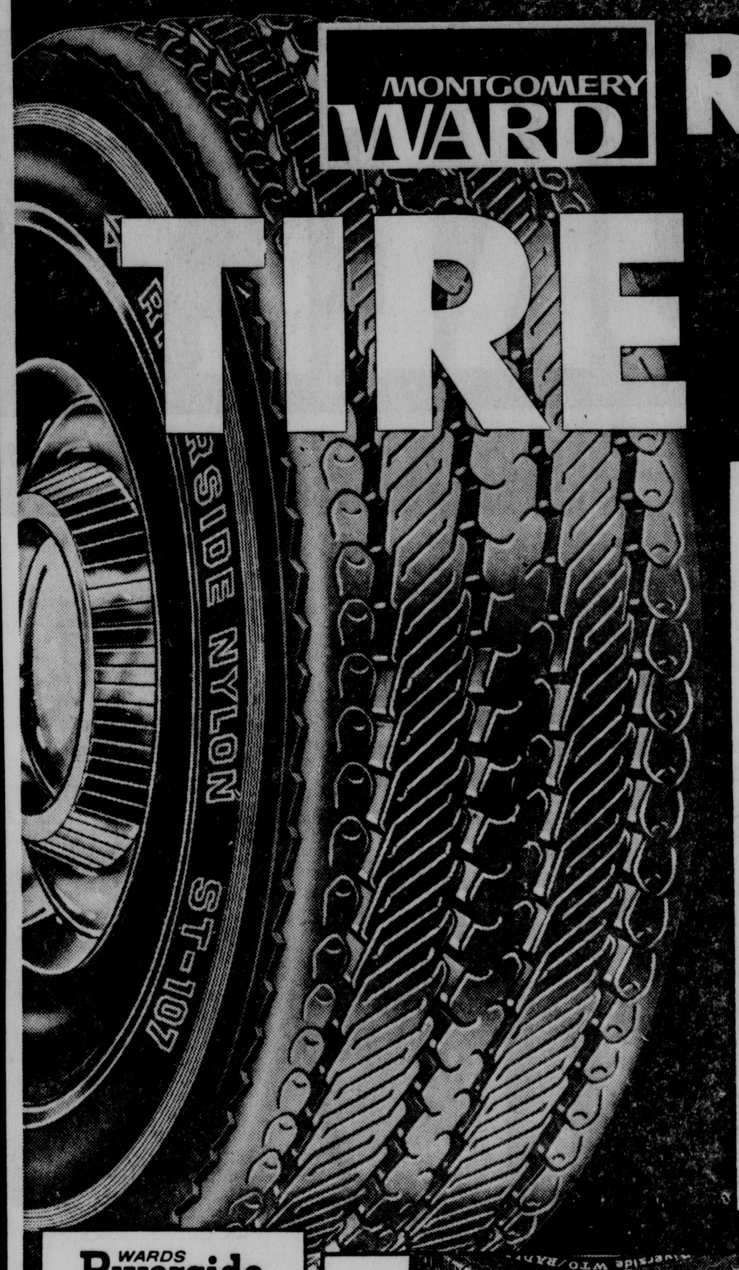

New pain formula. 50% stronger than a regular aspirin. So you take it less often. Yet so gentle you can take it on an empty stomach.

Doctors must often tell people with arthritis, and its early-morning stiffness, to take a lot of aspirin. Trouble is, many arthritis sufferers get a burning upset stomach from large doses of regular aspirin. But now comes a new formula for arthritis minor pain that (1) is so strong you can take it less often and still wake up in the morning without all the pain's stiffness and (2) is so gentle you can take it on an empty stomach. This means you get both extra medication and extra protection: Extra medication because each tablet contains 50% more pain reliever than regular or buffered aspirin tablets. Extra protection because each tablet contains two antacids and is micronized (which means the tablet particles are so fine the pain reliever is more readily absorbed). Called Arthritis Pain Formula, it was specially developed by the makers of Anacin® to give arthritis sufferers an easier, less upsetting way to wake up without all that early-morning stiffness—and enjoy hours of relief.

Grandson Of Sigmund Freud Visiting In Lincoln

. . . JOURNALIST HERE TO INVESTIGATE EATING HABITS

Clement Freud, renowned British journalist and grandson of Sigmund Freud, arrived in Lincoln Wednesday afternoon to investigate the eating habits of a typical American city for the London Daily Telegraph.

Freud and his wife were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Ebel at the Lincoln Country Club Wednesday evening, where they dined on filet boeuf en croute, a steak filet wrapped in a parfait crust.

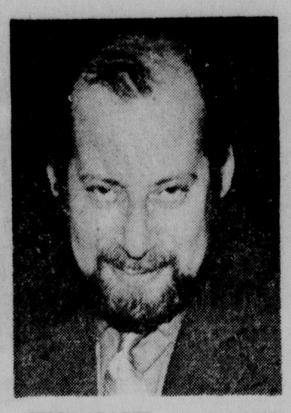

Freud said he had heard of Lincoln from Johnny Carson, the Merv Griffin show, and Hugh Hefner, at whose Chicago mansion Freud spent the night before he arrived in Lincoln. He is employed by Playboy as an international advisor.

"Yes, I know Hefner, and rather like him," Freud said. "However, I might as well let anyone who asks believe what they already believe about what goes on in the mansion. Actually, the only thing one can say after staying there is 'no comment.' "

Freud said that he was to write a 2,000-word story on his culinary experiences in Lincoln.

"Many British do not know very much about life in America," he said. "Journalists are becoming interested in American politics, sports, entertainment, food, and so on."

He said he hoped that he would have an opportunity to sample standard Lincoln fare as well as fine restaurant cooking during his five-day stay in Lincoln. However, he explained that "invitations are already far outrunning the greatest possible consumption of food."

STORY AT LEFT

CLEMENT FREUD

Mobe, Gene's People Had An Understanding

Chicago (UPI) — A 1963 campaign aide to Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy told a federal court jury Wednesday McCarthy's staff and anti-war protest leaders had an informal working agreement before and during the turbulent Democratic National Convention.

The witness, Sam Brown, testified that they discussed the possibility of calling off demonstrations if, on Monday or Tuesday of convention week, the Minnesota senator appeared to have a "good chance" of defeating then Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the presidential nomination.

Brown, currently coordinator of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee, testified at the trial of seven men charged with conspiring to incite riots during the convention in Chicago.

Worked As Liaison

He said that during the summer of 1968 he was a member of McCarthy's national staff and during the convention he worked as a liaison between the McCarthy forces and the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam.

Brown said that on Aug. 21, the Wednesday before the convention opened, he met with Rennie Davis and Tom Hayden, both leaders of the National Mobilization (Mobe) and now defendants in the trial.

An informal agreement was worked out between the McCarthy camp and the Mobes, he said. Under it, he said, the Mobes "would provide certain information concerning movement centers and other activities, including demonstrations," and the McCarthy workers would provide information "from our store front headquarters behind the Conrad Hilton (the convention headquarters hotel).

'Meet To Decide'

Brown said Hayden suggested at that meeting that "if McCarthy appeared to have a good chance by Monday or Tuesday — and if that chance might be hampered by public activity — then we could meet to decide whether to go ahead with the public activity."

"We agreed to be flexible," Brown said.

Brown said McCarthy had said publicly he did not wish his followers to come to Chicago because he was "concerned about the attitudes and atmosphere in this city."

But Brown said he told Davis and Hayden that McCarthy actually "was convinced people were not going to stay away."

Withdrawal Urged

Washington (UPI) — Industrialist Cyrus S. Eaton, just back from Hanoi, said that if the United States withdraws 100,000 troops from Vietnam in 60 days and the rest in 18 months," the other problems can be negotiated swiftly."

6 Charges Leveled Against Judge's Son In Auto Crash

New York (UPI) — Gareth Martinis, a judge's son acquitted of drunken driving charges in a 1963 auto accident that killed five persons, was charged again Tuesday in his latest traffic accident.

The 28-year-old Martinis had been charged with driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident, driving without a license, driving without auto registration and harassment in connection with an accident last Friday. Police said Martinis' car struck a taxi on a Henry Hudson Parkway service road not far from the scene of the 1963 accident.

When he appeared in Bronx Criminal Court for a hearing on these charges Tuesday, Assistant District Attorney William Holland brought a sixth charge against Martinis — leaving the scene of an accident where personal injuries occurred.

4-Year-Old Girl Wins Playhouse Poster Contest

Four-year-old Ingrid Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Olson of Lincoln, was announced as grand prize winner in the Lincoln Community Playhouse puppeteers poster contest.

Awarded first prize in each age division were Joy Urbom, one-8 years; Monica Means, 9-14 years; Sam Ridge, 15-20 years, and Anita Speltz, over 20.

Ingrid will receive a marionette as her prize and each division winner will receive a hand puppet. Winning posters are on display at City National Bank.

Auto Is Stripped Of $800 In Parts

Approximately $800 worth of parts, including a four-speed, floor-shift transmission, were stripped from a car early Wednesday in sub-zero temperatures.

The car belonged to Mowbray Buick, 421 No. 48th, and was parked outside on the north side of the dealership, police said.

Besides the transmission, thieves took chrome valve covers, steering wheel, hood and a four-barrel carbureator.

Three Grounded Astronauts Freed To Resume Flying

Space Center, Houston (AP) — Three astronauts grounded last month took to the air again this week, flying T38 jets from Ellington Air Force Base, space agency officials said Wednesday.

Flight restrictions on astronauts Alan Bean, Walter Cunningham and Joseph Kerwin were removed Monday, officials said, and they flew that same day.

Bean, the lunar module pilot on Apollo 12 and the fourth man to walk the moon, was grounded for taking off from Ellington without clearance. Officials said a communications error caused him to believe he had clearance.

Cunningham, a crewman on Apollo 7, and Kerwin, a scientist-astronaut who has not flown into space, were grounded for not filing plans to land at an alternate airport in case of an emergency after taking off from Ellington.

Information Bill OKd

Des Moines (UPI) — An amended bill that would require utility companies to inform their customers of any new or changed rates was approved 42-16 by the Iowa senate.

1st Plymouth Congregational Church Re-Elects Moderator

J. Taylor Greer was re-elected moderator of the First Plymouth Congregational Church Wednesday night at the annual congregational meeting.

Other officers named include Laurence Tyler, assistant moderator; Dorothea Stahn, clerk, George Barlow, treasurer; Inez Hanneman, assistant treasurer; Geoffrey King, representative to the church council at-large and Karen Hagelberger, youth representative to the church council.

The revised budget proposal was accepted with the condition that an additional fund drive be initiated so the original budget could be adopted. The revised budget was set at $115,475, compared to the original budget of $127,956.

Pastor of the church is the Rev. J. Ford Forsyth. He is assisted by the associate pastor, Lawrence L. Stanton, the minister of Christian education, Thomas H. Evans and the minister of music, C. Richard Morris.

Mediator Unsuccessful

New York (UPI) — J. Curtis Counts, head of the Federal mediation and Conciliation Service, wound up his second week as chief mediator in the General Electric Co. strike talks without any indication of movement toward a settlement of the 13-week walkout.

YMCA Okays New Membership Plan

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Members of any Lincoln branch of the YMCA will be able to take part in activities at any other branch for a members' program fee under a new policy approved by the YMCA board of directors.

Individuals and families will pay a basic membership fee that will entitle them to participate in functions at any YMCA branch upon payment of a fee established by each branch for particular programs, YMCA Executive Director Bill Schenk announced Wednesday.

Previously members of one YMCA branch had to pay fees for non-members at another branch, according to Schenk.

The new basic membership fees will be $15 for families, $10 for adults and $5 for youths under 18.

All programs of the YMCA will come under the central membership philosophy except special cases such as the church league basketball program, Schenk said.

For example, men will pay a $10 individual or $15 family membership fee plus $90 for the fitness center services at the central branch, regardless of which branch of the YMCA received the basic membership fee. Previously, men who were members at other branches also had to join the central YMCA in order to pay a member's fee for the fitness center services.

While some YMCA programs have had fees before, many have not, Schenk pointed out. As a result, the YMCA expects to realize more money from membership participation, he said.

The board also approved a $17,546 budget for a special youth counseling project, Schenk reported. Some $15,384 has been requested from federal funds under the Juvenile Delinquency Act to finance the project.

Local matching funds of $2,162 would be provided by in-kind services and cash from the Malmsten Fund, he said.

If the youth counseling project is approved and funded, the YMCA 1970 program budget would total $366,454, the board was told.

Four persons were elected to the board of directors by the YMCA membership: Robert E. Campbell, Paul J. Amen, Carroll Thompson and William Thorton.

Seated on the board to fill out the terms of two members who resigned were Paul Hyland and Hal Hasselbalch.

William C. Smith was elected by the board of directors to the YMCA eight-member board of trustees.

S. Edward Copple was re-elected president of the YMCA. Other officers re-elected at the annual meeting were Donald Endacott and Paul Schorr III, vice presidents; James F. Nissen, secretary, and Edward H. Smith, treasurer.

Watershed Unit Told: Look Ahead

Ed Lawson of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Wednesday told Salt Valley Watershed District directors they should look ahead at future water resources needs.

Lawson said that the development of the watershed area, especially land surrounding Lincoln, will create needs that will require action.

He told the watershed district directors that the corps' future participation in watershed projects will center on those projects designed to fit the future needs of the people.

To Meet Needs

"We want to meet these needs before they become problems," he said, noting that the emphasis will be on the needs which deal with the quality of the environment.

He said that participation in projects would have to be related to a comprehensive plan for the watershed district.

The corps has completed its work on present watershed district projects designed to solve existing problems. Much of the work done was in flood control measures to protect Lincoln and surrounding rural areas.

Election Set

Robert Crosby, legal counsel for the watershed district, said that there will be a public election May 12 to fill seven watershed district positions. Filing for office must be done by March 12.

Those directors whose terms expire are Dr. Henry Cech, Paul Amen, Henry Amen and Tom Sweeney, representing Lincoln; Ken Weaver of Raymond and Dale Harlan of Hickman, representing Lancaster County, and Frank Waiss of Brainard, representing Butler County.

Directors also authorized spending an amount not to exceed $7,500 for construction of a flood control drainage project in Waverly, authorized spending $5,100 to settle a condemnation action for land at Dam 26A in the southwestern part of the county, and heard a report on plans for competitive rowing at the Branched Oak Reservoir.

Sheriff Is Making Film Available On Child Molestation

A film concerning child molestation is being made available to all interested persons by the Lancaster County Sheriff's office.

Entitled "The Riddle of the Friendly Stranger," the film points out the ways a child may avoid situations leading to child molestation.

A preview of the film was shown Wednesday to representatives of rural area schools and the news media.

Deputy Sheriff William Greiner, explaining the purpose of the film, quoted figures compiled by the Lincoln Police Department showing an increase from 63 molest cases reported in 1964 in Lincoln to 90 reported in 1968.

He said the most frequent occurrences are with children going to and from school and with 11-year-olds.

He said many cases are not reported due to parents' reluctance to have their children involved in questioning and possible court cases and because they don't want their neighbors to learn about the incident.

Sheriff Merle Karnopp said that anyone interested in having a representative of his office show the film to children or to adult groups should contact his office.

Board Of WHO Votes To Refrain From Smoking

©The New York Times

Geneva — The executive board of the World Health Organization passed a resolution Wednesday calling on all persons attending its meetings to refrain from smoking.

Approved unanimously by the 24-member board, the resolution recognized that everyone "must decide for himself whether he will risk endangering his health by smoking cigarettes." But it added that the individual "should also have regard to the influence on others of his example."

The board of the United Nations agency also commented that "no organization devoted to the promotion of health can be neutral" on the question of cigarette smoking.

Pollution Control Package Is Now Law In Wyoming

Cheyenne, Wyo. (AP) — The first comprehensive air pollution control laws in Wyoming are now on the books after three years of painstaking work.

Paul Westedt, chairman of the Wyoming Air Resources Council and the man who directed formation of the laws, said 13 new sections filed Tuesday were "very close to middle of the road policy."

Taking in a range of pollution problems, from the sulphur dioxide emissions of the state's oil refineries to simple backyard trash burning, the new regulations give Wyoming its first complete pollution control package.

4601 VINE STREET

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Something called the new math blew in with the winter storms. Something I am going to get in next grade.

Not my next grade. Next grade for one of the scholars of the scatter.

What they bring home I get: Homework and colds. Stern advice and backchat: "Miss Wentworth says!"

I said: "I don't give a —. I mean don't quote Miss Wentworth to me again. What is she? The United Nations?"

I did my homework when the Board of Education was stuffing me with "a plus b."

I did homework for my older children.

I do homework for the younger children.

But now they are changing the rules, Sam.

A neighborhood lady said: "It is something based on sevens. Instead of tens like when we were in school."

What do I know about sevens? It is a bad number to get when you are trying to make your point on the dice table. Seven out. Next shooter coming up.

The older children brought math home. "Bob lost three-fifths of his money and had $3 left. How much did he have in the first place?"

I said: "How did he lose the money? On the horses? He should bet the $2 window on the next race and save a dollar for carfare home."

Well, that isn't the answer. (I was really stalling. These three-fifths things sound so easy, but I never could work them out.)

I said: "Well, let's see. If he started with $15 — no, that isn't it."

I said: "Why don't you pay attention in class? Learn to do this yourself."

I said: "If I lost such money and had only three left, I would just write it off. Forget it. Because Bob was obviously on the shorts when he started."

"It has something to do with computers," said the neighborhood mother. "The computer doesn't accept a zero. So they use sevens."

It would be my idea to let the computer figure out the homework.

These are computer days. Why bring children up to do the machine's work?

Do not staple, fold or mutilate your child. He will not go through the computer.

Time for a change. Last problem I worked on was a high school thing: "Mr. Jones buys a house for $6,000 . . ."

Show me a scatter you can buy for $6,000. Show me a doghouse you can buy for six big ones.

That was a few years ago and even then it was out of date. We don't need new math. We need to update the problems.

The problem in this case was Jones's payments. How soon would he own the house? Burn the mortgage.

I said: "Jones is living in a fool's paradise. He will never own the house."

I said: "The second year a tree will fall on the roof. Jones will claim storm damage. The insurance people will point out that falling trees are not included in the policy. Only falling bricks.

"Jones must then go to the bank and open the end of the mortgage, as we say. He borrows back all the money he has paid in."

Well, that is not the answer either. Not the way Miss Wentworth sees it.

(I told the child: "Do it their way now. But come to me before you buy a house.")

Winter nights around here. Stormy weather. Abraham Lincoln did his sums on the back of a shovel by firelight. I told them that.

We sit in front of the fire and do homework with pencil and paper. If they could do it on a shovel they would be more intrigued.

They said: "Could we get a shovel? What kind of shovel did he use? Did he like to do homework on a shovel?"

I said to the house wren: "Fetch me down the cooking sherry. I'm feeling faint."

FOOD

delightfully different

There is something special about puffs and souffles. The light airy texture and crisp crusty top offer a welcome change from heavy stick-to-the-rib recipes more commonly used in menu planning. Though puffs and souffles are not heavy like other entrees, they are indeed hearty fare.

One such appetite pleaser is Whipped Potato-Spinach Puff made with the built-in convenience of instant whipped potatoes. All of the work of peeling, cutting and cooking potatoes is eliminated. In a matter of minutes, velvety smooth whipped potatoes can be ready for combining with cooked chopped spinach. The delicate flavor blend is then accented with minced green onion and Parmesan cheese. Eggs are used to give the puffy delight its name and texture.

The recipe can be served as a luncheon or dinner entree. All that is needed to complete the menu is a basket of oven-warm flaky biscuits and a crisp green salad.

WHIPPED POTATO-SPINACH PUFF

(Makes 6 to 8 servings)

6 tablespoons grated 100% Parmesan cheese
1 1-3 to 1 2-3 cups (1 section of 5½-oz. package) Instant Whipped Potatoes
1 tablespoon minced shallots or green onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
4 eggs, separated
1 (10-oz.) package frozen chopped spinach, cooked, drained
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper

Butter 1½-quart souffle dish; sprinkle with 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese. Prepare potatoes according to package directions. In small-size skillet, heat shallots in butter over low heat, until lightly browned. Remove from heat. Add egg yolks, singly, to potatoes; beat well after each addition. Stir in shallots, spinach, salt and pepper. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Stir one quarter of beaten egg whites and 3 tablespoons Parmesan cheese into spinach-potato mixture. Fold in remaining egg whites; turn mixture into prepared dish. Sprinkle remaining one tablespoon Parmesan cheese over top. Bake in preheated hot (400 degree F.) oven for 5 minutes. Reduce heat to 375 degrees F.; bake 40 to 50 minutes.

Quickies

Raisin bread makes superb French toast: Simply dip slices of raisin bread into your favorite French toast batter and saute to a beautiful golden brown. Powdered sugar or warm fruit makes the perfect topping.

Drain canned pear halves. Fill centers with a favorite cheese spread. Chill. To serve, slice each pear into thirds. Roll in cracker crumbs. Serve as an appetizer, or as a garnish for a plain gelatin salad.

Brand New 'Appetizer' Idea

Here is something new in the line of entertaining. Flavorful appetizers using poached halibut. Just in time to start a collection of fresh recipe ideas for the new year, these are easy on the hostess as well as the budget.

To make the marinated appetizers, the halibut is poached early in the day and allowed to marinate in a lemon-oil mixture until the dinner hour. At serving time, the chunks of halibut are arranged on small plates and garnished with canned mushrooms, onion slices and endive.

For a different look, the marinated halibut can be served in stemmed crystal glasses lined with lettuce and garnished with tomato slices.

MARINATED HALIBUT APPETIZERS

1 pound genuine halibut
1-3 cup salad oil
¼ cup lemon juice
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1 (2-oz.) can button mushrooms
Onion slices
Endive or lettuce

Poach halibut in salted water, simmering about 5 to 10 minutes or until just tender, depending on thickness of cut. Drain and chill. Cut into chunks. Combine oil, lemon juice, mustard, parsley, salt and pepper. Pour over halibut. Cover and marinate in refrigerator several hours or overnight.

To serve, place halibut on small plates or in cocktail glasses. Garnish with mushrooms, onion slices, and endive. Drizzle with marinade. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

Dessert World Belle

We're quite certain that the popular lady who presides over the culinary department always is looking for a new angle when it comes to her family's favorite dessert — cake — That's what we have this morning — a new angle, and here it is:

MARBLED BUTTER CAKE

½ cup (1 stick) butter
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
2½ cups sifted cake flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk
4 egg whites
⅓ cup sugar
2 square (2 ozs.) unsweetened chocolate, melted

Butter and flour cake pans; set aside. Cream butter and 1 cup sugar together until light and fluffy. Add vanilla. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually add 1-3 cup sugar and beat until soft peaks form. Fold whites into batter. Divide batter in half; stir melted chocolate into one part. Use a tablespoon to place chocolate and white batter alternately in pans. Lightly swirl batters. Bake 25-30 minutes in preheated 350 degree oven. Cool 10 minutes. Remove from pans onto wire racks and cool completely. Fill and frost with Chocolate Peanut Brittle Icing.

CHOCOLATE PEANUT BRITTLE ICING

½ cup (1 stick) butter
1 square (1 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
3½-4 cups (1 lb. pkg.) confectioners sugar
2 egg yolks
¼ cup light cream or half and half
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup crushed peanut brittle

In a small saucepan melt butter and chocolate. Remove from heat. In a mixing bowl beat together sugar and chocolate mixture. Add yolks and cream; beat until smooth and creamy. Blend in vanilla and crushed peanut brittle. Sufficient for filling and frosting 2-layer, 9-inch cake.

Eastborough
Maple Village

suburbia

January sometimes seems a rather slow and dull month, especially after all of the exceedingly busy times of Christmas and New Year's when there are so many festive events. With the extremely cold weather we've been having, a good many of us are just staying at home and waiting the month out — hoping for some warmer weather one of these days. Just think — after today there are only nine more days left of January before February, with its handful of holidays, arrives. Although January is not so busy, perhaps, as some of the other months, there still are a number of social events filling the activity calendar.

Eastborough has not been without its share of activity this month. Despite the cold, brisk temperatures, suburbia residents are keeping busy with birthday celebrations, moving to a new home and entertaining friends and realtives.

On Sunday, Jan. 11, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Benson were host and hostess at a supper at their home to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Benson's father, Joseph J. Rinke of Shelby. The other guests on hand to join in the celebration included Mrs. Rinke; Mr. Benson's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Benson of Shelby, and Mrs. Benson's grandmother, Mrs. Mae Nicolas, also of Shelby.

Saturday, Jan. 10, was moving day for former Eastborough residents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Smith, who, on that day, moved from their home at 6936 Vine to a farm near Malcolm.

Home recently on two weeks leave was Pvt. Mike Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Draper, who already has returned to his assignment at Ft. Lee, Va.

The winter months are too often a time when neighbors don't see much of one another because it's just too cold to be outside or perhaps, because of work during the day, it's just rather difficult to keep in touch. However residents of suburban Maple Village, especially those living in the Chestnut Lane area, are getting together for coffee once a month for a bit of socializing.

Last night, Mrs. George A. Wright of 8215 Chestnut Lane was a coffee hostess at her home when she entertained a group of feminine neighbors. We understand that the coffees are a monthly event in that neighborhood at which the women take turns as hostess.

Bridge always is popular any month of the year and certainly January is no exception. Last Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Diers of Maple Village were host and hostess at their home for the monthly meeting of their bridge group. The other members of the group are Mr. and Mrs. Barc Bayley, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Finke and Judge and Mrs. W. W. Nuernberger.

Planning a trip to the warmer climes next week are Maple Village residents Mr. and Mrs. Vince E. Kess, who will be flying to Mexico on Friday, Jan. 30. During their two-week stay, they plan to visit Mexico City, Puerto Vallarta and Acapulco.

Complexion Care For Ski Devotees

Josephine Lowman

As all of you know, it is the skiing season. This sport has zoomed in popularity during recent years. The experts tell me it is one which all ages can enjoy. They also say that it can be begun safely at any age if two warnings are heeded.

First be sure to have instruction. Take some lessons before trying it on your own. Also, if you are a beginner, stay on the gentle easier slopes. It seems that most accidents occur because the person just really did not know how to ski or because he or she was too venturesome.

I read that according to a statistical report by United States Army doctors those who are unmarried, under 20 and lack skiing skill, are most apt to break a bone or two. If you are in any one of these categories, take care. If you are in all three of them, perhaps you had better seek instruction or stay at home in front of the fire.

Some women fail to realize that their complexion requires as much protection when skiing as when sunning on the beach. The reflection of the sun's rays from the snow is extremely intense. Also the dry cold wind will cause chapping and roughness unless you give your skin special care.

Be sure to use one of the products which not only screens out the sun's rays but also contains and emollient. Also take advantage of a lip pomade. If you wish, use a colorless one underneath your regular lipstick. Treat your face and neck to lubricating creams at night. Apply a body lotion after bathing or before going to sleep at night and massage cream into your heels and elbows.

A Lover Of Antiques

By JEANNE LESEM

New York (UPI) — Gertrude Weber, an antiques dealer, gets as excited about 17th and 18th century handmade kitchen utensils as most other women do about diamonds and furs.

Her enthusiasm is shared by museums and house restoration project managers as well as individual collectors. Among the museums and restorations she's helped outfit are Schenck House of the Brooklyn Museum, the Torrington, Conn., Museum, George Washington's Headquarters, Rockingham, N.J. and a French consul's kitchen for the Colonial Dames of Texas.

In an interview, Mrs. Weber suggested that the relatively neglected field of kitchen antiques has come full circle in recent years.

We talked with her before the opening on Jan. 22 of the 10-day 16th annual Winter Antiques Show, where she will have a booth. The show benefits the East Side House Settlement.

When she entered her first show in the early 1960s, handmade kitchen and hearth utensils were so inexpensive that the average housewife could afford them instead of buying new ones.

Up to three years ago, she said, you still could find copper and brass implements for kitchen and hearth. But today's distribution is so wide and the demand so great that the supply has dwindled and prices have risen.

Complexity of design and use don't necessarily influence the value of such utensils.

"You won't believe it, but one hard to find, rare and expensive item is a set of iron skewers with its own hanger. The last I saw had at least half a dozen skewers, and Sturbridge (a village restoration in Massachusetts) has a copy for $350.

"Very important bronze cauldrons may sell for as much at $1,000. I saw one that was patched and plugged — it was a real bargain at $285."

"Most women want a kettle," Mrs. Weber said. "And you can still buy a nice one for $35-$45.

"People want a range of things, but they usually start with a kettle, then add something to put logs in."

She added that collectors may use a cauldron originally a cooking pot, as a log holder and a peat bucket as a jardiniere.

The vivacious Mrs. Weber said she first became interested in kitchen and hearth antiques while collecting early American recipes when she and her husband, Palmer, went on house tours in Virginia, his home state.

Weber, an investment banker, was a college professor at the time and his wife planned to become a teacher.

Antique utensils changed her plans. She began buying them, and reselling to gourmet friends, to help finance more trips. Soon she was buying so many that she needed shipping crates. Rather than buy disposable ones, she branched into cottage furniture, including English and American chests large enough for packing boxes.

Today, furniture is the mainstay of her Kitchen and Hearth Antiques shop in the Long Island Historical Society Bldg., Brooklyn, because the supply of utensils no longer is large enough to support a business.

Mrs. Weber said her own interest is not in antiques as such, but in the beauty of workmanship and what they reveal about home life of their periods.

"You would expect (handmade) kitchen objects to be relatively crude, but they were made to the high standards that the guilds demanded (before the days of manufacturing.)"

Founders often cast the kitchen cauldrons with the same expertise they showed in casting bells, she said.

Authenticating such objects — dating them and identifying country of origin — often is as tough or tougher than locating objects to buy, she said. A collection of photographs and drawings helps.

"The similarities are startling. The numbers and types of cauldrons (from different countries and periods) are very much alike. You look for little clues — the design of a handle may identify an object. Dated objects are rare."

It's New

The newest accessory for the motorist: a gadget the manufacturer says helps to ward off drowsiness or tension while driving. Press this vibrating device to temples or back of neck. The manufacturer says the vibrations stimulate blood circulation to the brain, thereby reducing drowsiness. It stores in the glove compartment and operates on two ordinary "C" batteries.

A new do-it-yourself kit is for hunters and enables the woodsman to tan animal pelts. Key ingredient in this home-tanning kit: glutareldehyde, said to be the most effective tanning agent introduced in 25 years. The manufacturer says the chemical works on plets of large or small animals, hide or deer or steer, skin of fowl or fish.

A new sweep-snow brush for the motorist features a contoured beechwood handle with a double-leverage grip specially designed for heavy snow and ice removal. Its scraper-scorer blade and durable plastic bristles and versatility and strength. For maximum visibility in snow storms, cars ought to have all windows clear and both headlights and tail lights clean, safety experts say.

Lively new colors in vinyl-coated cloth tapes provide an opportunity for the do-it-yourself decorator to create her own designs easily on walls, floors, cupboards, utensils. The glossy-surfaced tapes were made specifically for decorating.

A new spray-on silicone coating lets you make almost any item in your cookware collection stick-free, says the manufacturer. The colorless, tasteless hard coating works on metal, glass or ceramic. One application ought to last up to seven or eight uses.

Fill a new coffee hopper with cold water to a marked line, then pour in a full pound of regular ground coffee. Put on the lid. Leave overnight. In the morning you will find that the cold water has worked itself through the coffee and a filter. Result — a decanter of liquid coffee. Either use at once or store in the refrigerator. When you want a cup, measure a tablespoon of liquid coffee into a cup, add hot water and, says the manufacturer of the new coffee maker, you will enjoy the best cup of coffee you ever tasted. The decanter of instant liquid will keep in the refrigerator for weeks and will make 32 cups.

Scientifically-designed space age undergarments, of the kind worn by Apollo astronauts on their journey to the moon, have been adapted for regular consumer use. The line of men's briefs and shorts is the newest among the consumer products born of space technology. The undergarments dry in two-and-one-half minutes — about four times as fast as nylon, says the manufacturer.

AROUND TOWN

Perhaps there is such a thing as spring, after all. Yesterday's sunshine and above zero temperature were, to say the least, encouraging.

It is amazing how few complaints are made about the current weather, and equally amazing that it in no way handicaps the activity, socially speaking — of course.

The other day we mentioned the Gay Nighters dinner dance which is planned for Saturday evening at The Knolls, and we talked about the extra-special decor and entertainment with which the committee will introduce a most unusual party theme 'Zodiac.'

That committee, by the way, includes Mr. and Mrs. Robert Magee, Mr. and Mrs. William Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson whose party ideas are not confined strictly to the dinner dance. They have more or less divided the club membership — and its guests — into three sections, and have invited them for cocktails at their homes preceding the dining and dancing.

The party guest list is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Jones, Mr. and Mrs. William Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. William Svoboda of Hebron; Dr. and Mrs. Paul Paustian, Dr. and Mrs. John Baker, all of Omaha; Dr. and Mrs. O. R. Hayes, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Dinsdale, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hartsock and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hudson.

The festivities on Saturday evening by no means closes the book on parties, however. Two weeks from Saturday evening — Feb. 7, to be specific there is to be quite a spectacular party at Hotel Lincoln.

That is the time and the place that the 100 Club will be celebrating its 20th anniversary and it is being done with considerable pomp.

At this time of year, as a rule, the 100 Club always has had a costume party, but this year things are different. The party is strictly a black tie and party gown affair — and no exceptions.

We'll tell you more about the anniversary party at a later date.

Right now we have news from State College, Pa. where a certain debutantalizer made her bow to the world on Friday, Jan. 9.

The young lady is petite Amy Elizabeth Epp, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Epp, and her mother is the former Cathryn Cronn, daughter of Mrs. Duard Cronn of North Platte — and a member of Willard sorority at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Included in the baby's family circle are her brother, Eric, who is two and a half years old, and her paternal grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Epp who, as everyone knows, reside in Lincoln.

Miss Amy Elizabeth's father, a graduate of the University of Nebraska and a member of Farm House fraternity, is a member of the faculty at the University of Pennsylvania.

Tempus really does fugit —It doesn't seem possible that the time has arrived for the Metropolitan Auditions, but it almost has.

The auditions will be held at 2:15 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 1, at the Sheldon Gallery.

And speaking of events at the Sheldon gallery — anyone with a nostalgic yearning to see Greta Garbo in "Anna Karenina" will have that golden opportunity following the Metropolitan Auditions.

The film will be presented at 7 o'clock — on Feb. 1.

Those Poor, Overworked Flowers Are Tired Of It All

Those poor, tired flowers have had it. They are tired of bedrooms, bathrooms, playrooms, and they are about to bow out of the decorating picture.

Patricia McCormack of United Press International, tells us what has happened to the posies — and why. Here is her story.

New York — Has flower power had it?

In towels, sheets and other furnishings for bedroom and bath, the answer is — probably.

A maker of such things, showing off the newest for the seventies, put it this way: "the flower is tired."

Sheet and towel decorations bypass the traditional flower designs, popular in the late sixties, for more stylized and surrealistic ones — plus bold geometrics.

Consider (for towels and sheets): shocking pink with orange, black and tan, electric blue and green combinations.

At a show during the fashion week of the New York couture business council, the West Point Pepperell people said the high fashion mixtures for bedroom and bath furnishings reflect the new and more ecclectic influences of the Pafis, London and New York couture collections.

In styling the collection, Chris Crispens said he felt he was strongly influenced by the age of Aquarius, and its staccato beat of fast-paced living.

Color mistakes happen all the time, of course. It's usually because you bought something that's the wrong color key, the firm's color experts reported at the show.

Something called a color key guide was described.

The world, you see, is divided into two color key groups and everyone is keyed to his or her color group or family. You blossom in the right color key and fade out with the wrong one.

And how do you know where you fit?

Well, the color key is determined by your coloring and each individual's coloring is composed of three primary colors: red, yellow, blue.

The way it works:

—the color key I person has more blue in coloring, giving a rose-pink skin complexion.

—the color key 2 person has more yellow, with a peach-pink skin coloring.

Pass	2 ♦	Pass	4 ♠

Opening lead — queen of hearts.

Bridge is not like ticktacktoe, where, if you always make the right play, you can't lose. There are times in bridge when all you can do is take what looks like the best shot and hope it strikes home.

Take this deal, for example. After three passes, you open a spade, which West doubles. East responds two clubs and you double for takeout to tell partner you have an exceptionally good hand.

This doesn't seem to raise North's spirits much, because all he does is bid two diamonds. Now you have a decision to make. You could jump to three spades to show the approximate strength of your hand, but this bid is not forcing and you might find yourself left at the post.

So let's say that, as a practical matter, you bid four — even though you lack full values for the bid — because you think North might pass with quite a few hands that would provide an adequate play for game.

West leads a heart and, when dummy comes down, you're glad you jumped to four. The probable losers are a spade, a diamond and a club. You take the heart with the ace and play the king of spades, won by East with the ace as West follows suit with the nine.

Of course, you thought West would have the ace, in view of his takeout double, but in a sense you're pleased to see that East has it. This is because you're missing only 16 high-card points, and you now know that at most West has 12 (intermediate-type) points.

This means that West's double was based in part on distribution, and he is consequently likely to have a singleton spade. Whatever East returns, you cross to dummy with a diamond, lead a spade, and finesse the eight. When the finesse succeeds, you have a right to congratulate yourself on good card reading.

Meeting

The members of the Women's Division of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and their guests will meet this Saturday at noon at the University Club. The program, to be presented by Miss Dorothy Ekblad and Miss Betty Malm, will feature an illustrated talk about the tour of Ireland which took place last October under the sponsorship of the Women's Divisions of the Lincoln and Omaha Chambers of Commerce.

Abby

it's not a new problem

DEAR ABBY: Please do not disclose my name, or where this letter is from, just sign it "DISGUSTED WITH CELEBRITIES," and let me have my say:

I am in a business which caters to people who want the best and expect to pay for it. My problem, Dear Abby, is getting my money from some of these celebrities. If I were to mention the names of some celebrities who have stuck me for thousands of dollars, you'd say I was lying.

Don't say, "Sue them!" It costs money to sue people, and collection agencies take a big percentage of whatever they can get out of some of those deadbeats.

Give me the honest, quiet rich "nobodies" who pay their bills, and you can have the celebrities who think they're doing you a favor by "honoring" you with their accounts.

DISGUSTED WITH CELEBRITIES

DEAR DISGUSTED: Your complaint is not a new one. Most "celebrities" are notoriously inept when it comes to managing money. (The smart ones have business managers who dole out a living allowance.)

Your only protection against celebrities who eat chicken one week and feathers the next, is to check and double check their credit, or deliver C.O.D.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Terry Intended Tax To Apply Only Within City

By United Press International

State Sen. Terry Carpenter said Wednesday he meant the local sales tax to apply only within the city limits of municipalities which enact such a levy.

The Scottsbluff lawmaker's comments were made in the wake of a dispute between the state tax commissioner's office and officials of Omaha and Lincoln.

Carpenter was the main author of the 1969 law which allowed cities to enact local sales taxes.

He said the law was not meant "to put Omaha and Lincoln merchants at a competitive disadvantage."

He said perhaps the city sales taxes could be made countywide in the future.

Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil had ruled that Omaha and Lincoln firms had to collect local sales taxes on items sold outside the city limits. Dairy route sales would be among the affected transactions.

However, the City of Lincoln obtained a Lancaster County District Court ruling that overturned McNeil's order and limited tax collections to sales actually made inside the city.

McNeil then proposed a set of rules similar to the one the court set aside. When that group drew opposition from the two cities, a third draft was prepared and has been under study by the attorney general's office.

Music news is covered thoroughly in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

CLANCY WOOLMAN

JAYCEES' HONOR TO WOOLMAN

Clancy Woolman, sales manager for the Lincoln division of the Central Telephone and Utilities Corp., was presented the 1969 Distinguished Service Award of the Lincoln Jaycees Wednesday.

Woolman, 32, of 931 Northborough Lane, was presented the award after Rod Vandeberg, 1968 award recipient, cited Woolman's activities in a number of service and community organizations.

Vandeberg said Woolman, married and the father of four children, has been active in YMCA, PTA, Elks, Community Chest, Heart Fund drive, Madonna Trust Fund drive, several Boy Scout campaigns, Lincoln Jaycees and other organizations.

Woolman has also served on the board of directors of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and presently works actively with the Capitol Association for Retarded Children, Vandeberg said.

The presentation is made each year to the "outstanding young man" of Lincoln between the ages of 21-35.

The judges who determine the recipient of the award are chosen by the previous year's recipient, Vandeberg said.

Everroad's Son Files For Legislature

The 22-year-old son of Nebraska's lieutenant governor was among candidates filing with the Secretary of State Wednesday for election to the Legislature.

John E. Everroad Jr., a senior in finance at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln and son of Lt. Gov. John E. Everroad, said he planned a house-to-house campaign for the 4th District seat.

"I think it's necessary that young adults finally take an active part in the government," he said. "I think it would be beneficial for the legislators to have the young adults' views and ideas."

The 4th District has been represented by Omaha Sen. Henry F. Pedersen Jr., who has filed as a Republican candidate for lieutenant governor. The senior Mr. Everroad has indicated he will not seek re-election.

John Jr. said he favored "economy in the operation of government" and a "weeding out of unnecessary legislation" in an effort to shorten legislative sessions.

Filing for re-election to the Unicameral Wednesday were Sens. Ramey C. Whitney of Chappell and Harold D. Simpson of Lincoln.

Simpson, representiog the 46th District, is the first Lincoln senator to file and will be looking for his second term.

Whitney, a lawmaker for six years, already is being opposed by William S. Padley of Ogallala.

Vehicle Homicide Trial Continued Until Next Month

Trial for Christine Townsend, a 19-year-old Lincolnite charged with a misdemeanor offense of motor vehicle homicide in connection with the Jan. 5 death of Carl A. Royer, was continued Wednesday to Feb. 19.

Miss Townsend, of 2446 Vine, had entered a guilty plea to the charge but Lancaster County Judge Ralph Slocum refused to accept the plea and entered an innocent plea for her. Bond was set at $1,000.

According to Deputy County Attorney Ronald Lahners, an investigation of the two-vehicle accident at 33rd and A disclosed that the vehicle driven by the defendant failed to stop for a stop sign at the intersection.

Omaha 'Fair Housing' Law Certified

The Nebraska Equal Opportunity Commission Wednesday certified Omaha's "fair housing" ordinance as equivalent to state law for local enforcement purposes.

Executive Director Reid Devoe said the action permits all Omaha unfair housing complaints to be referred to the Omaha Human Relations Department for primary investigation.

"All Omaha housing complaints received by the state commission will be referred to the Omaha agency within five days," he said.

While the Omaha agency has primary jurisdiction over local housing complaints, he said, the state commission has the authority to follow-up on referred cases to see if appropriate action has been initiated by the local agency within 30 days.

Devoe said the commission will move into its new offices in the Lancaster Building at 233 So. 14th next Monday.

He said the new offices will be "more accessible to the public" as well as providing additional space for the commission staff.

The director also reported that Wright Robinson of Lincoln has joined the commission staff as a field representative.

Robinson was formerly food service manager at the Lincoln Country Club, he said.

TIMBER LINES

By Randy Eickhoff
Star Sports Writer

Snaggle Free

All right, backlash experts, now you can join the front ranks of the casters with a new no-twist linewinder recently introduced by John S. Haddock, Inc.

It's a simple foolproof way (so claimed) to put new line directly onto your spinning or spincast reel without encountering the old handicap of line twisting or the headache of taking the reel apart when you're supposed to be fishing.

The direct line applicator comes flat in seven parts that snap together. The assembled unit then clamps to the reel's spinner head.

It's rust free, and composed almost entirely of thermoplastic to cut down on weight. Line is applied evenly and smoothly and kept tangle-free by rotating the new spool above the center of the reel's axis as the reel is cranked.

There! Now one problem has been solved. Any others?

Mixed Bagger Award

Master Angler awards have been given in the past by the game commission to fishermen who have caught fish that meet the requirements of the prize. With the enthusiasm that the awards have generated among the fishermen, the commission then decided to do something for the hunters and thereby established the mixed bagger awards.

To the surprise of everyone, however, the mixed bagger awards have been called a license to slaughter by some irate hunters and criticism has been heaped upon the game commission.

A point to remember, however, is the hunters who are doing the complaining will probably kill the required bag during the hunting season themselves and still call the award a threat to their hunting. It might be a good idea if the complainers would stop and take stock of themselves before sounding off against the commission's actions.

The idea of competitive shooting is appalling, but the awards are not given for one day's bag but rather for the whole season. All a hunter has to do is exercise self-control and not indiscriminately slaughter game while trying for the award. Most do that anyway.

More Timber Lines

State and federal officials afraid of frightening away about 65,000 ducks and geese spending the winter in Alabama have agreed to halt construction of a new $20-million Interstate 65 four-lane bridge across the Tennessee River until March 1 to allow the birds some peace and quiet.

Traffic, officials say, will not bother the wildlife once the bridge is completed, but apparently construction is ruffling too many feathers.

Hunters in British Columbia recently shot and killed a grizzly bear believed to have killed and partially eaten a hunting guide in the Doig River Area, 30 miles north of Ft. St. John.

A conservation officer said the bear was in poor condition and lacked the fat reserves needed to carry it through the winter hibernation. The lack of body fat reserves and the reported scarcity of big game in the area probably caused the bear to attack and partially eat the guide.

Jim Kraft of Lincoln, recently returned from a fishing trip at Nine-Mile-Creek near Scottsbluff where he netted seven trout, two of which tipped the scales at 6½ and 5½ pounds.

"I forgot about having them weighed for the Master Angler awards," he said, "but I still had my fun."

Kraft also reeled in two trout at 4½ pounds, one at an even four and four others that were "too small to worry about." Nice fishing Jim!

PITTS, CAFFEY TO BEARS

Johnson, Beathard, Farr Involved In Grid Trades

. . . PACKERS GET NO. 1 DRAFT CHOICE

By Associated Press

The Chicago Bears, looking to bounce back from a 1-13 season, the worst in their proud, 50-year history, traded their No. 1 draft pick and offensive tackle Rufus Mayes Wednesday for a total of five players from two clubs.

The Bears, in the National Conference of the new National Football League setup, sent their No. 1 choice, which actually will be the second selection in the first round of the upcoming draft, to the Green Bay Packers of the National Conference.

In exchange, the Packers gave up three veterans — running back Elijah Pitts, outside linebacker Lee Roy Caffey and center Bob Hyland.

Mayes was sent to the Cincinnati Bengals of the American Conference for defensive tackle Bill Staley and defensive end Harry Gunner.

In another interconference trade — the first major one — the St. Louis Cardinals dealt veteran quarterback Charlie Johnson and Bob Atkins, a cornerback and wide receiver, to the Houston Oilers for a pair of veterans — quarterback Pete Beathard and cornerback Miller Farr.

Under the new merger setup, the National Conference is comprised of 13 old NFL clubs while the American Conference is made up of the 10 former American Football League clubs plus three old NFL teams — Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Baltimore.

In another National Conference trade, the Los Angeles Rams sent reserve center Frank Marchlewski to the New Orleans Saints for an undisclosed draft choice.

ELIJAH PITTS

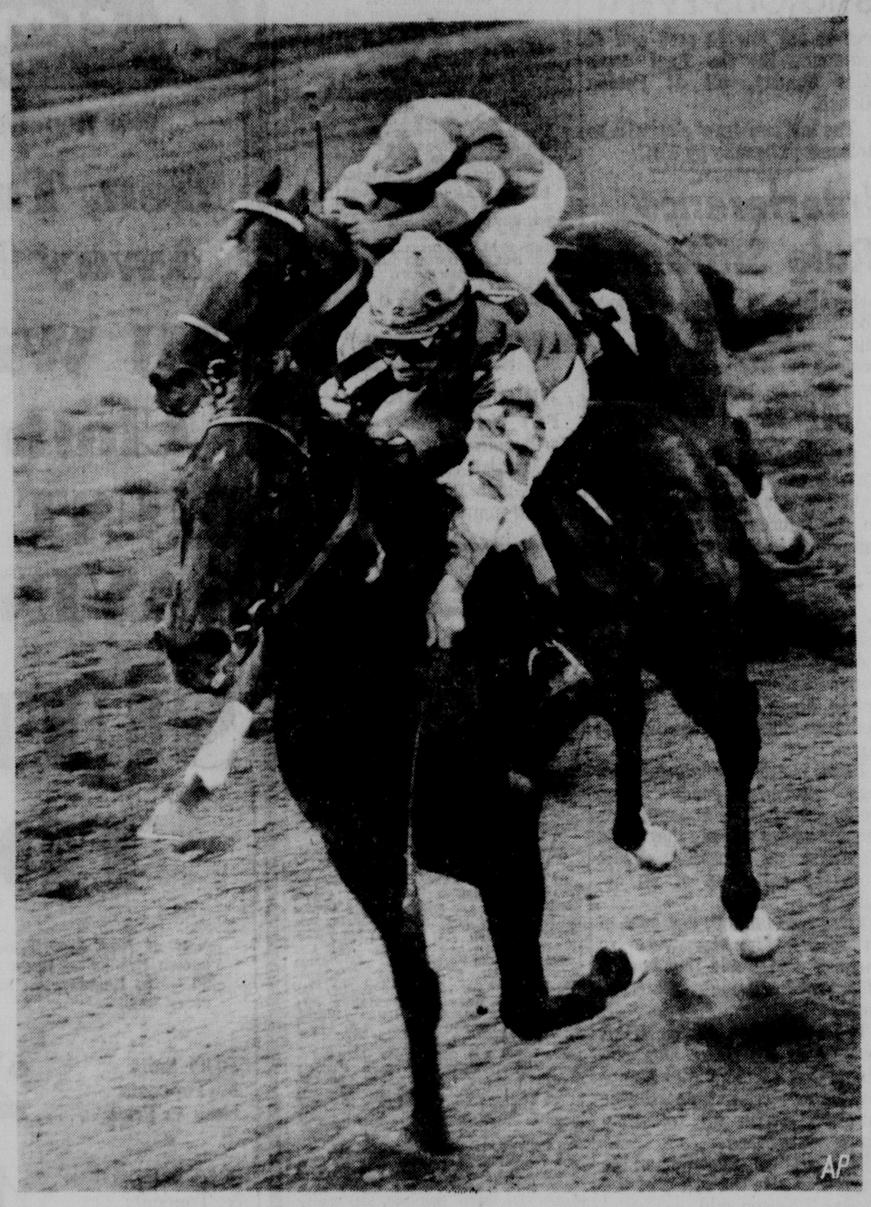

LEE ROY CAFFEY

In getting Caffey and Pitts, the Bears acquired two players who were members of Green Bay's NFL champions in 1965-67 and played on the first two Super Bowl champions. The trade of Caffey apparently will give a shot at a starting position to Fred Carr, Green Bay's No. 1 pick, from Texas-El Paso, in 1968.

Johnson, in joining Houston, will again be under Wally Lemm, once his head coach at St. Louis, Johnson was St. Louis starter from 1962 through 1966, missed most of the next two seasons because of military service, and shared the quarterbacking chores with Jim Hart last year.

Beathard was a reserve at Kansas City for three seasons before becoming No. 1 quarterback at Houston in 1967. He was publicly criticized by owner K.S. "Bud" Adams after the Oiler's 56-7 drubbing by Oakland in the recent AFL playoffs.

HARTACK RIDES WINNER

George Lewis, ridden by Bill Hartack won the $25,000 added Hibiscus Stakes at Hialeah Wednesday. Insubordination, a close second was ridden by Angel Cordero Jr. Iron Warrior was third with Jacinto Vasquez up.

Lincolnite Wins Open Jumping At Show

Denver, Colo. — Bill Yates of Lincoln, a student at Colorado College, rode Flasha Otto to victory in the Open Jumping Class of the National Western Horse Show here.

Yates rode the Broadmoor-Coxtail Stables of Colorado Springs' horse to a 19.3-seconds clocking in the third-round course, 1.3 seconds faster than front-runner at the time, Coffee Break, to pick up the title.

JFK Topped By Packers

Wahoo (AP) — Midwestern College of Denison, Iowa, paced by Lovell Leddell's 35 points, topped John F. Kennedy College Wednesday night, 111-106.

Kennedy led by one at the half but with eight minutes remaining the Packers pulled to an eight-point lead and held it.

Midwestern	52	69—111
Kennedy	53	53—106

Midwestern — Leddell 35, Holstein 4, Hershaw 21, Lafiura 23, Flick 8, Larson 12, Kiriloff 4, Gallagher 4.
Kennedy — Johnson 11, Spellman 27, Miller 26, Triano 18, Leos 20, Studen 2, Isacson 2.

O-State Grid Aide Joins Rival Oklahoma Staff

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Jim Dickey, assistant football coach at Oklahoma State University the past four years, will join the University of Oklahoma as defensive secondary coach.

OU head coach Chuck Fairbanks announced the move Wednesday night.

Dickey, 36, replaces Billy Gray, who resigned recently to enter private business. The new Sooner coach's appointment is subject to approval of the Board of Regents.

Seattle Mayor Plans Suit If Pilots Go

. . . DEADLINE TODAY FOR DANZ GROUP TO RAISE MONEY

Seattle (AP) — Mayor Wes Uhlman, in what he called "a last resort" to keep the American League Pilots in Seattle, Wednesday threatened the league and the team's present owners with a multimillion dollar lawsuit if the franchise is moved.

Uhlman said in a news conference it is "painfully clear that the money might not be available in today's tight money market to purchase the franchise" and assume operating costs as the league has decreed a Seattle group must do.

"It's now down to the wire," Uhlman said. "I'd hate to see the American League take any precipitous action."

The league has given a Seattle group headed by businessman Fred Danz until today to come up with a solution to the Pilots' financial problems. This means securing money to pay off a $3.5 million loan taken out by the present owners of the Pilots, who have been in the league one year.

Milwaukee and Dallas-Fort Worth are interested in getting the franchise. The league reportedly has set a Jan. 27 meeting in Kansas City to decide on the Pilots' future.

Uhlman said he told city lawyers to draw up a lawsuit when it became apparent to him that negotiations between Pacific Northwest Sports, Inc., the present owners, and the Danz group had broken down. Uhlman said any suit would be against the league and Pacific Northwest.

Uhlman said the suit could involve breach of lease agreement or request for damages under antitrust laws. The damages, he said, would include the $3 million the city spent refurbishing Sicks' Stadium, a minor league ball park, as an interim facility.

Seattle voters approved a $40 million bond issue to build a domed stadium, which is to be ready by 1973. Uhlman said the future of that stadium is in jeopardy with the possibility that the Pilots' franchise might be moved.

Uhlman said the Danz group told him Wednesday there was only a "most slight chance, very slight indeed," that the group could meet this afternoon's deadline imposed by the league to iron out the money problems.

The Bank of California has called in the $3.5 million loan and the prospective buyers of the team apparently have not been able to raise the money. A ticket drive has brought in $310,000 for tickets over the next three seasons.

Uhlman, (Washington) Gov. Dan Evans, and Washington Democratic Sens. Warren G. Magnuson and Henry M. Jackson all wired American League President Joe Cronin asking that the league not move the franchise.

Danz said he would be "amazed and dumbfounded if we lose the club."

But baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn told a Milwaukee group last weekend that the Pilots are in serious trouble and could wind up moving to Milwaukee.

James W. McCurdy, president of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, said Uhlman's statement seemed to indicate that the franchise was lost to Seattle.

"We may be out for a while, but I think the community will get major league baseball back, assuming that the franchise is lost," McCurdy said.

He estimated the economic lost to the city at between $5 and $10 million, most of it tourist money.

Uhlman said he was trying to buy time to bring about the sale of the team and bring it to health in Seattle.

"I have been assured business leadership will supply sufficient funds to operate for 1970 and negotiate satisfactory sale of the team to a new group of substantial citizens," Uhlman said in his telegram to Cronin.

Danz said he has had no success in the past 24 hours in raising money to meet the loan.

—JAYS HOT IN FIRST HALF—

Late Second Half Burst Lifts Creighton Past LaSalle, 86-77

Omaha (UPI) — Creighton broke away in the last five minutes Wednesday night to gain an 86-77 victory over the LaSalle Explorers here.

Bergman paced a hot shooting Creighton first half attack with 16 points to help boost the winners to a 44-36 halftime lead.

But the Explorers fought back during the first nine minutes of the second half and wiped out the Creighton lead and even led briefly, 55-54, at one time.

Creighton guard Mike Caruso hit repeatedly on one-and-one tosses from the charity line to help pad the final Creighton margin.

Caruso connected on 13 of 14 free throws during the game and wound up with 19 points, three less than Bergman collected.

Bob Fields of LaSalle led all scorers with 27 points.

LaSalle of Philadelphia brought only eight players to Omaha for the game because two of its squad members were declared scholastically ineligible several days ago.

The victory boosted Creighton's record to 10-5, and the loss left LaSalle with a mark of 10-6.

Tom Gregory, averaging an even 20 points per game, leads Nebraska's freshman basketball team in scoring.

—TROPHY WORTH $4,000—

Laver Wins The Gold Racket As Top Netter For 2nd Time

New York (AP) — Rod Laver of Australia, who completed his second Grand Slam of tennis by winning the Australian, Wimbledon. U.S. and French titles, received the Gold Racket for the second straight time Wednesday as the Tennis Player of 1969.

The honor was voted to the left-handed professional by sports writers from throughout the world.

The Gold Racket, a $4,000 Tiffany-designed trophy made of solid silver and plated with gold, is presented to the Player of the Year by Martini & Rossi.

John Newcombe of Australia was the original winner in 1967 and Laver won for his outstanding performance in 1968. A player may retire the trophy by winning it three times.

Besides winning the four big Open championships, Laver led the pro money winning list with more than $120,000. He won the Grand Slam in 1962 as an amateur, becoming the first since Don Budge in 1938 to make the four-tour name sweep.

In the 1969 balloting, Tony Roche was second, followed by Newcombe and Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va. Tom Okker of The Netherlands was fifth, then came Fred Stolle, Roy Emerson, Stan Smith and Pancho Gonzales.

Laver cannot repeat as Grand Slam winner in 1970 because he chose to pass up the Australian Championships, now in progress in Sydney.

Ed Bourdase Leading PBA Money List

Akron, Ohio — A victory in the $50,000 Greater Los Angeles Open last week and a finals finish at Wichita a week earlier have given Ed Bourdase the early lead in the Professional Bowlers Association's (PBA's) 1970 money race.

Foremsky is the defending champion in this week's $77,777.77 Showboat Invitational in Las Vegas. The money standings will be shuffled somewhat after the winner picks up a check for $11,111.11. The finals will be telecast nationally (ABC-TV) from 2:30-4 p.m. (CST).

Madison Gets Perfecta OK From Board

The Nebraska State Racing Commission has approved perfecta betting for the 13-day Madison Downs racing season this year and may allow other tracks to use additional types of betting.

The perfecta is a betting system in which the bettor must pick correctly the first and second place finishers in the race. Nebraska tracks have been limited to win-place-show and daily double betting until this year.

Henry Brandt, general manager of the State Fair race meeting in Lincoln, indicates that he anticipates no betting changes at Lincoln this year.

"I'd want to study it further," he says. "Right now, I'm not too excited about it."

"The cost factor has to be weighed against the extra handle which might be obtained," he explains.

Like Brandt, most of the other track managers have adopted a "wait and see" attitude, but they remain open to change.

Ex-Giant End Prefers Market To Football

. . . THOMAS NOW HAS VALUABLE SEAT ON NY STOCK EXCHANGE

New York (AP) — Aaron Thomas, the tight end, got his signals on the telephone, jotted down a few quick notes and then battled his way through a mass of clamoring humanity to the middle of the floor.

"Buying 100 shares of GC," he said.

"Selling 100 GC at 19½," came a response.

"Paying 19," said Thomas.

"Make it 19¼."

"Okay, 19¼ it is."

A score.

It's a long jump from the improvised football field at Yankee Stadium to near half-million-dollar seat on the New York Stock Exchange but Thomas made it — and he finds it just as hectic, exciting and competitive.

"It's great — every day is a different experience," said the former flanker of the New York football Giants. "It's the only thing I know that could make me get up at 6:30 in the morning and stand on my feet until they ache."

Thomas, 32, a former Oregon State player who grew up in the obscure little lumber town of Weed, Calif., ended a nine-year professional football career in December to devote himself fully to his main love — Wall Street.

Here is a rare role for an ex-athlete. He occupies one of the limited seats on the Exchange, bought for him by his employer, the old and established Goodbody and Co., for $375,000.

The seats are reported going now for as much as half a million dollars. Thomas didn't get the seat because of his fame as a football player. He earned it with a trigger financial mind.

"When I started playing pro ball with the San Francisco 49ers in 1961, the stock market figures were just a lot of gibberish to me, just as they are to most people," he explained.

"A teammate, Jerry Mertens, got me interested and started explaining the market to me. It was fascinating. When I got to New York I got a job with a small firm and then later moved over to Goodbody. For the last two years I have been handling institution sales accounts. I made a couple sales. Maybe that is the reason they decided to give me this chance."

Dick Callinan, public relations chief of the Exchange who has been on Wall Street since 1930, says he doesn't recall any other athlete who moved to a seat on the Exchange.

To gain such a position, a man must be recommended by two members of the Board of Governors. His past life is put under a microscope. He must go to school, take an examination and then be approved by the Board.

Thomas goes to school three nights a week.

An unimposing figure in his pin-striped suit, blue shirt and tie — the Wall Street uniform — the 6-3, 215-pound ex-Giant needs his football training on the floor of world's financial citadel, where an average of 11 million shares is traded daily.

From 10:10 a.m. to 3 p.m. when the floor is operating, it is wild pandemonium. There are as many as 2,500 people on the floor at one time, and hundreds operating small auctions. Telephones jangle. Computers clatter. Yelping buyers and sellers turn the place into a churning, paper-strewn madhouse.

"It's wild — it's more hectic than any football I ever played," Thomas said. "But I love it. The world changes every day, so does the market. Sometimes I handle as much as half a million dollars a day. Sure, I worry, but I feel I know what I am doing."

Thomas lives in Armonk, N.Y., with his wife and four small sons, aged one to eight. He rises at 6:30 a.m. each working day, is in his office at 8 a.m., seldom heads home before 5 p.m.

He's on the floor from around 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., never sitting down and taking only 20 minutes for lunch.

"At the end of the day, my feet really hurt," Thomas said.

Weather Is Dominant Factor In Crosby Tourney Which Starts 4-Day Run Today

. . . RAIN FORECAST FOR PRESTIGIOUS EVENT

Pebble Beach, Calif. (AP)—Color the Crosby gray. Gray for rain.

As in perhaps no other golf tournament, the weather is a dominant factor in the $125,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, a prestigious event that begins — hopefully — a four-day run this morning.

As in perhaps no other tournament, the question "who's leading?" is heard much less frequently than "how's the weather?"

The weather man has the answer: Rain.

It has rained almost daily for 10 days. The forecast is for more. And more. A satellite weather picture shows a cover of rain-bearing clouds extending some 2,000 miles out into the Pacific.

It all has to pass over the picturesque Monterey peninsula, site of the three courses that will be played by the star-studded field of 336, divided into teams of 168, with a pro and an amateur on each team.

Even with the weather outlook and the history of the weather here — it's traditionally played in rain and wind, and once was played in snow — the event remains one of the most popular on the PGA tour, ranking with the Masters in attendance.

About the only name missing from the roster of top stars is South African Gary Player, who hasn't yet started his American tour.

Jack Nicklaus is making his first start of the year. Arnold Palmer has just returned from a business trip to Hawaii. Asked about the weather there, he just looked wistful.

Some of the others here include Billy Casper, Gene Littler, Lee Trevino, Frank Beard, Dave Hill and all tthe 1969 title holders, Orville Moody, Ray loyd, Tony Jacklin and George Archer, who won this event last year before taking the Masters.

The amateurs draw about as much gallery as the pros. In most cases they are show business personalities and sports stars.

Included are Phil Harris, Jack Lemmon, Clint Eastwood, Howard Keel, Bob Newhart, Dean Martin, Pat Boone, Alvin Dark, Jack Kramer, Sandy Koufax and Ralph Kiner.

There is no clearcut favorite. Historically, however, it has taken an experienced player to solve the weather conditions. Hill, big Bob Lunn, Littler and Casper would have to be among the choices.

Hill hasn't finished worse than fourth in two starts this year. Lunn qualified with a brilliant 63 and has played extremely well in recent starts.

Casper usually does well in this sort of weather. Littler was second by one shot in his last start.

The unusual format has the teams rotating over the three courses, Pebble Beach, Spy Glass and Cypress Point, for the first three days. Then the field is cut to the low 70 pros and 40 amateurs for the final day's play Sunday, all at Pebble Beach.

The last two days' play will be telecast nationally by NBC.

Hunting Clock

The following applies to any point in Nebraska that is due north or due south of each of the cities and towns. For each 13 miles west of any designated city add one minute, and for each 13 miles east subtract one minute. All times are Central Standard Time, except those for Scottsbluff, which is on Mountain Standard Time. Hunting hours are one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset for deer and one-half hour before sunrise to sunset for all other species. Shooting hours for the High Plains Experimental Duck Season are sunrise to sunset.

Interference Rule Stiffened

Sarasota, Fla. (AP) — College football's rulesmakers stiffened the penalty against pass interference Wednesday and announced a plan that could eliminate below-the-waist blocking.

John Waldorf of the National Collegiate Athletic Association said any pass interference call in the future will result in an automatic first down at the point of the foul.

In the past the automatic first down was awarded only if the foul was committed after the football had left the passer's hand. Such calls with the ball not in flight called for 15-yard penalties but no automatic first down.

Dave Nelson, successful college division coach from Delaware, said the committee recommended a study that could eliminate all blocking except from the waist up of an opponent.

Nelson said that 36 per cent of all football injuries were to knees or ankles and that such a rule would eliminate many of them.

The committee asked NCAA funding for the study and suggested that experimental games with below-the-waist blocking be done away with for freshman teams next season.

"Our first consideration on the committee is to the safety of the players," Nelson said.

Duke Says Big Eight Stronger Than Ever Before In It's History

. . . 'OKLAHOMA AND THE 7 DWARFS' PAST

Kansas City (AP) — "I don't think there is any question but that the Big Eight Conference is stronger than it has ever been in its history."

With that unqualified statement, commissioner Wayne Duke presented a January "state of the Big Eight" in an interview with The Associated Press.

"I think," Duke continued, "this strength is based on the over-all balance theme we've been preaching. It is balanced strength on the athletic field and in our philosophy.

"It's an overall balance combined with an overall excellence.

"It's a far cry from the days of Oklahoma and the Seven Dwarfs."

Duke has much evidence on his side.

Big Eight football teams played 40 home games in the 1969 season to an average crowd of 45,232—or 93% of stadium capacities.

Three times in the past four years the Big Eight has led all major college conferences in per cent of football attendance increases.

Three Big Eight teams have gone to post-season bowl games each of the past two years.

The Big Eight has not failed to land a team in one of the major bowls in the past 15 years.

The conference has had co-champions each of the past two years, with half the league involved in sharing the two titles.

With three weeks to go in the 1969 season, five teams still had a chance to share the crown. In 1967, 28 conference games were decided by an average of less than six points.

The Big Eight had an 18-9 football record against outside foes this season — including bowl games. Six of the nine losses were to teams ranked in the top five nationally.

The Big Eight has won 12 straight and 16 of the last 18 from the Big Ten.

While Duke fears this balance hurts Big Eight teams' chances of being ranked high in the national polls, he concedes it stirs fan interest week-to-week during the season.

"Our people are to the point," the commissioner said, "that when they line up across the line from another team they feel they have a chance to win. And the fans feel this way, too.

"It's the same with the basketball race. Our non-conference record (54-13) this winter against non-conference foes speaks for itself."

Duke sees no curtailment of the so-called minor sports in the near future, either. Some have seen cutting back minor sports in scholarships and travel as a means of saving money in the face of the rising tide of athletic program costs.

"I think this is a natural course of conversation," Duke said, "but any such talk by the Big Eight has been on a very informal level.

"We pride ourselves on a well-rounded program. We have not talked in any specifics or with any real seriousness about curtailing our other programs.

"We have institutions adding rather than deleting sports from their programs."

The Big Eight operates an 11-sport varsity program. Only four teams are not represented. Kansas has no wrestling team, Kansas State no swimming team and Missouri and Oklahoma State no gymnastics teams. Kansas once had wrestling and K-State once had swimming.

"At this time," Duke concluded, "I think any curtailment of any sports program would be done on an institutional basis rather than on a conference basis."

Jura's Effort Good For 3rd In Scoring

Sophomore Chuck Jura's performance Saturday night in Nebraska's win over Colorado boosted him into third place on the NU scoring chart and over the 100-mark in rebounding.

Jura has scored 145 points, one more than Leroy Chalk, and now has pulled down 103 rebounds. Chalk is the rebounding leader with 144.

Sixth-man Marv Stewart continues to lead the Huskers in scoring with 201 points for a 14.3 average. The Huskers will return to action Jan. 31 at Oklahoma.

Conference Balance Evident In Break-For-Test Time Stats

Kansas City, Mo. — That balance in the Big Eight Conference that was ever so present during the pre-season tournament is extremely evident right now as break-for-tests time hits the conference.

Best example is second-place Missouri, boasting a 3-1 Big Eight mark. The margin of winning or losing for the Tigers over that stretch has been just 13 points. If the three games in the pre-season tournament are added, the total difference for the seven games is just 23 points.

This evenness doesn't involve just those Missouri has gone against, though. Six of the nine conference games played to date have been settled by four or fewer points, a seventh game had a margin of seven points.

While this balance does show up in the standings and rings on the nerves of the coaches, it isn't appearing in the individual rankings — except to point out that the teams getting the balanced scoring are those in the early lead.

Why out in front yet in both the scoring and rebounding chases is the junior Kansas center, Dave Robisch, with his 24.5 scoring average and 18.5 rebounding marks. This rebounding mark for the 6-9 middle-man, if maintained, would bring a new league record, surpassing the old mark, held by Kansas' Bill Bridges, by almost one a game.

Stock Market Moves Higher

New York (AP) — Stock market prices moved higher along a narrow front in moderately active trading Wednesday.

"Most of the action was the result of individual corporate announcements," said one analyst. "Its pretty hard to pin the rise on one thing."

The biggest corporate development did not affect the price of the company's stock. American Telephone announced plans for a massive $1.50-billion financing program through an offering to shareholders of 30-year debentures, with warrants to purchase stocks.

AT&T never opened on the exchange. The New York exchange said it wanted to give shareholders time to evaluate the plan. It closed Tuesday unchanged at 49.

The Dow Jones industrial average gained 4.42 to 782.27. It had been up more than five points earlier.

Trading on the Big Board was 9.8 million shares. Advancing stocks outnumbered declines by 695 to 633 among the 1,566 issues traded. There were 58 new 1969-70 lows and 10 new highs.

The AP 60-stock average gained .5 to 268.1, with industrials up 2.5, rails off .5, and utilities off .3.

Among major categories aircrafts, electronics metals and airlines were higher. Steels, motors, rubber issues, mail-order retail and farm implements were mixed.

Of the 20 most active Big Board stocks, 9 advanced, 8 declined, and 3 were unchanged.

Prices rose along a narrow front in moderately active trading on the American Exchange.

The Amex price index rose 5 cents to $26.49. There were 439 stocks which rose and 400 which fell among the 1,040 issues traded.

Volume dipped to 4.1 million shares.

There were 13 blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded, compared with 11 on Tuesday.

Of the 20 most-active issues, 12 declined, 7 advanced, and 1 was unchanged.

Fed Steers Are Steady At Omaha

Omaha (AP) — A lack of response in the dressed beef trade to stronger fed cattle prices tempered bargaining on the Omaha market Wednesday.

Fed steers sold generally steady with demand quite definite in preferring lighter weight offerings. Choice and better quality heifers also traded steady, but offerings grading low choice and under turned in a weak to 25 lower direction.

Steer top here repeated at 29.50 for two loads of choice to prime 1,058 lb. weights.

Several shipments choice to prime 950-1,050 lb. heifers 29.00.

Bulk top beef cows 21.00 extra good 21.25-21.75.

Butcher hogs turned 25-50 lower. Sows, under good demand, trended firm to instances 25 higher. Steady to lower wholesale pork prices backgrounded the trade as supplies in the midlands continued moderate to light.

Bulk top on 190-240 lb. barrows and gilts at 29.25, small showing selected 190-220 lb. weights 29.50.

Fat lambs sold steady to strong. Toppy No. 1 plets 29.50, best woolies on hand 28.50.

Johnson Is A Happy Man In Retirement

©The New York Times
By STUART LONG

Stonewall, Tex. — The easy life he never had before holds continued satisfaction for former President Lyndon B. Johnson at his beloved LBJ Ranch on the Pedernales River.

A year ago this week, when he left Washington to fly back to the ranch in Air Force One, few believed that this driving man could become relaxed and happy. But he is.

His first anniversary as a private citizen found him in a normal sort of a day. He and Mrs. Johnson had their 2-year-old grandson Lyn with them at the ranch. Monday night. Lyn had slept with his grandfather after a ride on a pony. Lyn's grandfather led the pony while Lyn hung to the saddle horn, and they looked over the cattle together.

During the morning, three busloads of wives of Army men from Ft. Hood came to the ranch to be greeted by the Johnsons. They were on a tour of the hill country of Texas.

In the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson went to Austin to visit their newest granddaughter, Nicole Marie Nugent, who is back home from the hospital with her mother, Mrs. Patrick J. Nugent.

Johnson and his staff have been going through some of the 31 million pages of papers he brought to Texas to be housed in the Lyndon B. Johnson Library, which is being built on the campus of the University of Texas in Austin. He is moving along in the final stages of his first book: "Lyndon B. Johnson: The White House Years," which will tell of the highlights of his presidency.

This requires more reading than writing. He reviews the memorandums on each event about which he writes.

Johnson is refusing to be drawn into Texas politics. He is staying out of the Democratic primary contest between Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough and former Rep. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr.

For 45 years, Johnson had to be somewhere almost every minute of his busy days. Now he has no set time to get up and no set time to go to sleep. The other night, he said, he started reading and did not stop until 4 a.m.

Johnson generally continues to oe an early riser. He goes out to look at his cattle after a light breakfast (it's lighter now because he put on a few pounds around Christmas.)

Mail Comes At 9

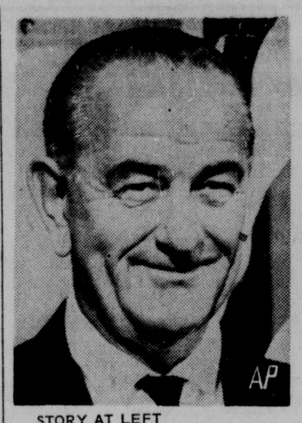

When the mail pouch and papers arrive at 9 a.m., he returns to his office at the ranch, reads mail and dictates correspondence until lunch. Then he takes a nap before working a few more hours until about 5 p.m., when he takes a ride around the ranch. Occasionally, he works with the ranch hands in the field.

It is obvious that Johnson is enjoying his freedom. He has attended several football games. He and Mrs. Johnson drive to San Antonio or Austin to have dinner with friends, and they have taken a few trips, including one to New York City.

When Johnson finishes his book and gets moving faster on the classification of his papers, he intends to accept some of the invitations he has had to lecture at universities.

Each week, President Nixon sends a pouch of briefing material to the former president.

But the rancher on the Pedernales has nothing to say publicly about national affairs. He wants to be helpful to everyone he can, including his government. He has his views, but he's not expressing them. He is not mad at anybody these days. He is happy.

LBJs In Mexico On Long Vacation

Acapulco, Mexico (AP) — Former President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson arrived Wednesday afternoon from Austin, Tex., by private jet for what Johnson called their first vacation since leaving the White House a year ago.

He said they would spend seven days in a house at nearby Puerto Marques owned by Miguel Aleman, former president of Mexico. Johnson gave no further information about his plans, but indications are the vacation may last several weeks.

State Federal Savings, Loan Names Whittaker President

Leonard E. Whittaker was named president and chief executive officer of State Federal Savings and Loan Association Wednesday during the annual shareholders' meeting at the association's home office in Beatrice.

He succeeds Maurice S. Hevelone, who will now serve as chairman of the board.

Whittaker joined State Federal in 1952 and was appointed secretary in 1954 and in 1965 was named executive vice president.

He is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and of the Savings and Loan Executive School at the University of Indiana.

Hevelone has been president and managing officer of the association since 1950.

Promoted to new management positions were Walter R. Arpke, vice president and secretary; J. K. Munford, C. K. MacDonald, and G. Vincent Nelson, assistant vice presidents, and Thomas G. Harre, treasurer and controller.

Canadian Says U.S. Not To Test In North Pacific

Ottawa (AP) — Canada's Foreign Secretary Mitchell Sharp told the House of Commons Wednesday the United States will not make any nuclear test in the North Pacific for at least two years.

If the United States decided to make such a test, Canada would ask that the decision be reconsidered, Sharp added, in reply to a members' question.

The United States is still studying results of a nuclear test last year in the Aleutian Islands and has not decided on any future trials, Sharp said.

NBC To Raise Interest Rates On Savings Plans

Regular savings accounts on deposit at the National Bank of Commerce will earn 4½% instead of 4%, according to Gene C. Eaton, senior vice president at NBC.

Eaton added that other qualified savings plans will increase interest from one-half to three-fourths of one per cent.

The NBC decision follows a late Tuesday announcement by the Federal Reserve System permitting some bank savings accounts and ceritificates of deposit to earn higher interest rates.

Walter E. Nolte, executive vice president of First National Bank, said, "First National is planning the increases permitted. However, effective dates have not yet been announced.

Democratic Leaders Unite To Upstage Nixon

©The New York Times

Washington — With a newfound unity, House and Senate Democratic leaders sought Wednesday to put a Democratic stamp on the crime, pollution, education and health issues before President Nixon delivers his State of the Union message.

Not since the Republicans took over the White House a year ago have congressional Democrats been so active, concerted and deliberate in challenging the Nixon administration.

Defying the threat of a presidential veto, the Democratic-controlled Senate passed a $19.7 billion appropriations bill that provides $1.26 billion more than requested by the administration for health and education.

Political Opportunity

In the House, Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, the majority leader, told a Democratic caucus that the bill presents the Democrats with a political opportunity to label the administration anti-health and anti-education and appealed to Democrats to unite in overriding a presidential veto.

With the appropriations bill out of the way, the Senate Democratic leadership promptly called up an organized crime control bill, thus attempting to nullify any presidential claims that the Democratic-controlled Congress has failed to consider the administration's crime control package.

But the unexpected innovation was a joint news conference called by the Senate and House Democratic leaders to boast of the anti-pollution legislation that has been passed in recent years to emphasize the commitment of the present Democratic Congress in dealing with environmental problems.

Environment Plans

As the Democrats were well aware, the President, in his State of the Union message Thursday, will emphasize administration plans for improving the environment.

But the Democrats moved to get in the first political blow, with Albert declaring: "If there are any Johnny-Come-Latelies in this fight, it's the President."

The news conference marked the first time that Sen. Mike Mansfield, since becoming Senate Democratic leader nine years ago, has sat down, either privately or publicly, with his House counterparts — Speaker John W. McCormack and Albert — to discuss a legislative issue.

Here's How To Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checknd figures gives you.
